Crystal Commons is back

Long-stalled project looking for a spring groundbreaking

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Crystal Commons is back on the table. Crystal Commons was permitted as a 108-unit condominium development slated for construction at 10 Burlington Avenue, the former site of Diamond Crystal. Made up of two three-story buildings on the 11.5-acre parcel. The project was permitted by the Wilmington Board of Appeals (BOA) as an affordable housing development, under Massachusetts Chapter 40B laws, in April of 2006.

The proposal met with opposition from some area residents citing excessive density. State Representative James Miceli and Burlington Avenue resident Neil Devins went so far as to file suit against the BOA for its approval of the project. That suit, however, failed and no further appeal was filed.

In March of 2007, representatives for the developer, Tambone Investment Group, notified the town that it would be scaling the project down by as much as 10 percent. The number of units, number of bedrooms, the general layout, and the finishes would not be altered - only the total square footage of the units would be affected. Market conditions were cited as the impetus for the intended reduction in size.

In December of 2007, the property was auctioned off.

At Monday's Board of Selectmen, representatives of Winn Development announced their intentions for the property. The project will go ahead as a 108-unit housing project, but will be upscale rental property, as opposed to condominiums.

The scale of the buildings will be reduced by roughly 15,000 square feet, resulting in

Krochmal Farm claims witch hunt

Farm in compliance on 31 or 34 requirements.

By JAYNE W. MILLER

TEWKSBURY - Last Thursday night the Tewksbury Board of Health closed a grievance hearing involving Krochmal Farm which had extended over several meetings since the spring. At issue, three remaining requirements, out of a list of 34 issues, that had been issued by the Board of Health in February. The Board found the farm in compliance on all but three requirements and will order the farm to remediate those items by October 16.

By putting in place a timeline with specific tasks, the Board of Health in effect creates a zero-sum game. If Krochmal fails on any point, it opens the door for an injunction or other legal maneuvering.

Though, that is an unlikely outcome. Having received a hefty list of hoops to jump through, Krochmal Farm has already completed thirty one of thirty four, including obtaining building permits for the pig facility, electrical permits, and much more. Upon receiving the original order letter, John Cave, Jr., owner/operator of Krochmal Farm, requested the grievance hearing. He originally appeared before the board in June with his attorney Frank DiLuna. Mr. DiLuna did not attend last Thursday's continuation of that hearing.

Thursday Board of Health members, along with Public Health Director Lou-Ann Clement, asked questions about the outstanding three requirements. The, at times, heated discussion raised some pertinent issues on both sides, while

Vintner's will pour

Local winery authorized to provide samples

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - In a squeaker 3 to 2 vote, Selectmen set precedent on Monday night by authorizing, with conditions, Vintner's Cellar to pour samples of wine for their customers.

Vintner's Cellar, a new business here in Wilmington, produces and sells specialty wines. The business, which often creates wines specifically to individual customer specifications, sought the ability to offer samples of its wines to its customers. Limited sampling, the owners assert, will enable the winery to best serve its customers.

Liquor stores, and restaurants with a pouring license, have the ability to offer samples by right within the law. Vintner's, however, is operating under a farmer-winery license, which enables the business to sell its wine by the bottle, but does not accommodate pouring on the premises.

It is within the Board of Selectmen's authority to grant permission in such cases. The Board explored the issue during its August 11 meeting, and then asked Town Counsel and Vintner's to develop a series of conditions to govern the proposed sampling.

On August 11, Selectman Michael McCoy indicated that he was in favor of the concept, but urged the Board to move carefully.

"If we do this, we should take caution with the exact wording and do it right," McCoy said during the August 11 meeting.

This past Monday, McCoy came out against the concept of pouring alcohol without a state issued law governing the action.

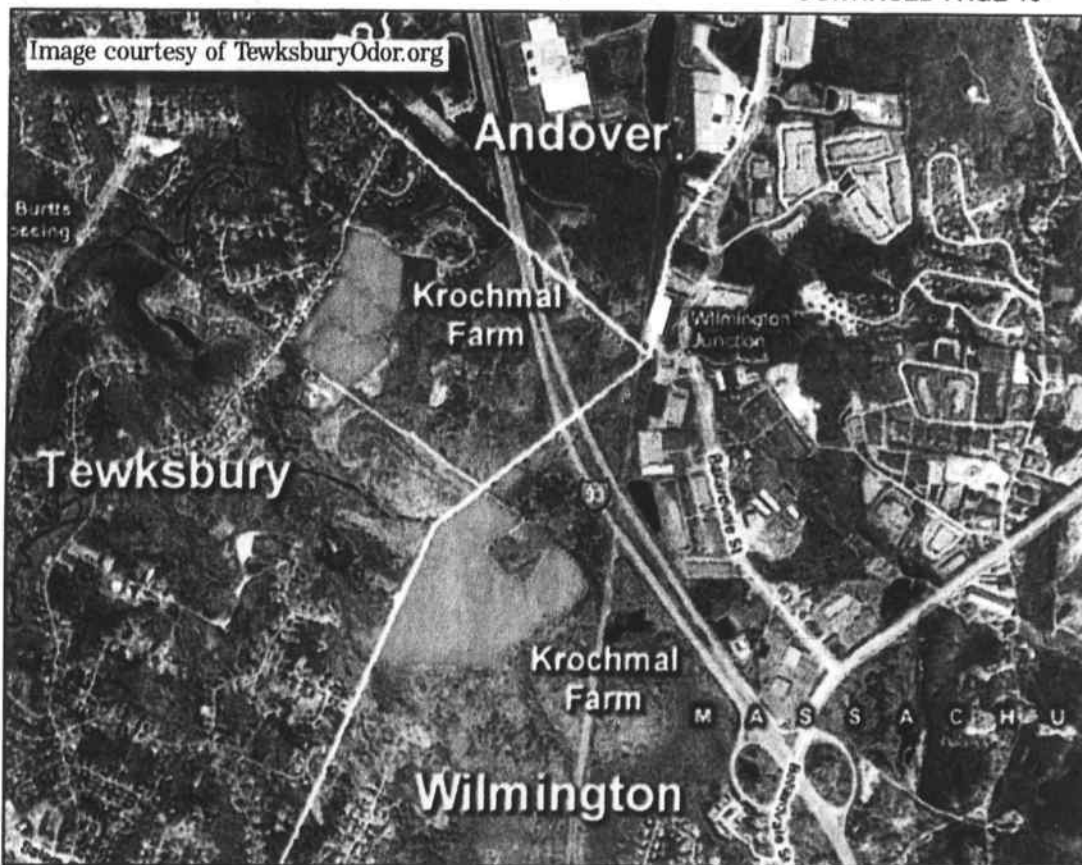

"There are 351 cities and towns in Massachusetts, and no one else has given this permission," McCoy said.

McCoy's biggest concern involved the potential liability facing the town.

Town Counsel Tracy Klay stated that the firm of Deutsch, Williams advised against any firm pouring without a Section 12 license, and opined that policing the conditions would be a problem.

"The impression I've gotten from your office has been, 'you don't have to do it, you can do it, but be careful,'" said Board of Selectmen Chairman Michael Newhouse. "I respect

CVS MinuteClinic to Debut in Tewksbury

Oakdale Plaza store among first in Massachusetts

By JAYNE W. MILLER

TEWKSBURY - The Oakdale Plaza CVS, located at 1900 Main Street, will be opening a MinuteClinic next month, offering quick, affordable healthcare for minor ailments. CVS stores in Tewksbury and Medway will be getting the first MinuteClinics in Massachusetts. With 538 such clinics in 26 states, Massachusetts is just coming on board with new regulations designed for this new model of healthcare service. CVS plans for about 100 MinuteClinic locations in Massachusetts when all is said and done.

The MinuteClinics offer quick visits with nurse practitioners focusing on common ailments like strep throat, flu, ear infections, some skin infections, and vaccines, says CVS MinuteClinic spokesperson Brent Burkhardt.

Why Tewksbury? According to Department of Public Health spokesperson Donna Rheame, applications from Tewksbury and Medway CVS stores were the first DPH received. The Department of Public Health created new regulations for limited service clinics in February 2008. The licenses for CVS MinuteClinics were granted under these new regulations on August 19.

"We looked very closely at MinuteClinics, held public hearings, and people weighed in, and gave testimony, on these clinics," said Rheame.

"We looked at all the testimony and the public health council voted to pass these regulations. Going forward, these limited service clinics offer a new model of health care delivery and we wanted to make sure that we addressed all these concerns."

The state did put limitations on the licenses to prevent children under 24 months from being treated as well as not providing childhood immuniza-

Clean up the Town!

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Conservation Commission invites the residents of Wilmington to set a few hours aside and participate in the Annual Town Clean-up Day on Saturday, September 27, 2008, which will take place from 8:00 am to 1:00 pm. The Conservation Commission is seeking volunteers to help beautify Wilmington's parks and streams by removing man-made debris. Wilmington Conservation Commission will provide work gloves on a first come, first serve basis. Please bring hip boots, if you have them.

All residents, regardless of age, wishing to clean-up Wilmington's parks and streams are invited to join the Conservation Commission members on Saturday September 27, 2008. Meet at the Whitefield School, 342 Middlesex Avenue at 8:00 am.

For more information, please contact the Planning & Conservation Department, (978)-658-8238.

It was another hugely successful day of family fun for the Annual Walk/Run to benefit the Justin Andrew O'Neil Memorial Scholarship Fund, held last weekend. Nearly $10,000 was raised, with more donations expected. The three-mile walk/run was followed by food, music, moonwalk, slush, popcorn, and raffles. This event helps to celebrate and honor Justin's life and will allow the O'Neil family to present this scholarship to Wilmington seniors graduating from high school for many years to come.

Jeffrey R. Hodder graduates basic combat training

Army Reserve Spec. Jeffrey R. Hodder has graduated from basic combat training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C.

During the nine weeks of training, the soldier studied the Army mission, history, tradition and core values, physical fitness, and received instruction and practice in basic combat skills, military weapons, chemical warfare and bayonet training, drill and ceremony, marching, rifle marksmanship, armed and unarmed combat, map reading, field tactics, military courtesy, military justice system, basic first aid, foot marches, and field training exercises.

Hodder is the son of Riley Hodder of Fox Run, Middleton, Mass., and Ginny Hipple of Baland Road, Wilmington, Mass.

In 2002, the specialist graduated from Wilmington High School, and received a bachelor's degree in 2007 from Marymount Manhattan College, New York City, N.Y.

greater setbacks from Burlington Avenue and from Floradale Avenue, and more landscaping.

"We're taking a blighted industrial site located in a prime area of the community and we're replacing it with an attractive rental property," said Lawrence Curtis, of Winn Development. "This is not a leftover farm on the edge of town."

The project will designate 30 of the 108 units as affordable, as defined by Mass General Laws Chapter 40B. As a rental property, all 108 units will count toward the town's state-mandated goal of having 10 percent of the housing stock as 'affordable.'

The affordable units will likely carry a monthly rent of $1,000 to $1,100.

Selectmen voted unanimously to offer its support of the project. Winn will next appear before the Wilmington Board of Appeals for a public hearing regarding its desire to modify the permit from an ownership to a rental development.

Winn hopes to break ground in the Spring of 2009.

it whenever an attorney says be careful."

The motion put forth by selectmen allowed Vintner's to, "deliver small portions of wine without any direct or indirect payment for consumption on the premises and for educational purposes only."

Fourteen conditions were attached to the motion. Some of the conditions included a minimum insurance requirement to be maintained by Vintner's, alcohol server training certification for each employee, samples of no more than one ounce and with no more than eight samples given to any one person on a given day, access to the property by any authorized town official at any reasonable time for inspection, and the sale and sampling only of wine with an alcohol content commensurate with the industry standard.

Another impressive facelift for the Shawsheen Tech Pool

BILLERICA - A year after Shawsheen Valley Technical High School upgraded the filtration system and the lighting system in its swimming pool area, the school made more improvements that are making life easier for the several high school swim teams, students and members of the public that utilize the pool on a regular basis.

Along with swim meets and physical education classes that are held at Shawsheen several times each week, the facility is also a home to swim lessons and recreational lap swimming for the public.

"This is an incredible community resource which needed an upgrade after 30 years of use," said Charlie Lyons, Shawsheen Technical's Superintendent/Director. "Shawsheen provides free use of the pool four hours each week to high school swim teams from Bedford, Burlington and Billerica. We also work closely with recreational departments from all of our member towns to ensure our pool is used evenings and weekends."

"They made all new locker rooms for both boys and girls," said J.P. Borriello, an automotive instructor at Shawsheen Tech and the school's swim coach. "They did a nice job." Gone are the group-style showers that used to be in the locker rooms. Instead, the bathroom is equipped with several individual stalls that provide swimmers with more privacy.

"The whole [locker room] hadn't really been touched since the school opened," Borriello said. "The changes are terrific. Even the students that swim during gym class are excited about it."

"It's phenomenal," said Anthony Fiore, the swim coach at Billerica High and a former coach at Shawsheen. "All of the girls [on the Billerica team] want to give [Superintendent/Director] Charlie a big hug. Kudos to Shawsheen. It is outstanding."

Along with the refurbished showers and lockers, Fiore said the areas are handicap accessible as well.

"They've utilized the space so well and the everything is so much cleaner," Fiore added. "They've made great changes over the last two years."

Burlington High swim coach Rachel Gould is pleased with the new locker rooms, particularly because most of her team's schedule this fall has the Red Devils swimming at Shawsheen.

"It's like a spa in there," she laughed. "The locker rooms are absolutely gorgeous. We had a team discussion in the locker room the other day - that had never happened before."

"Because of the investments made, we hope to continue offering programs so that local citizens can enjoy the sport of swimming for their lifetimes," added Lyons. "Years from now, decision makers will look back and thank us for modernizing the locker rooms, recaulking the deck and pool, putting in a new filtration system, laying a new roof, and installing a cooling system that lasted another 25 years. Who knows? Maybe we can help instill in a young swimmer the desire and commitment to emulate champions like Michael Phelps."

Miceli announces funding for new roof at Wilmington Housing Authority

Boston- Chairman James R. Miceli (D-Wilmington) is pleased to announce that the Wilmington Housing Authority will be able to replace their roof at the 705-1 43 North Street development because of a technical assistance and emergency capital improvement bond they received. The funding awarded, which will supplement the Housing Authority's existing capital reserves, is in the amount of $13,000 based on the expected cost of the project.

"I am so pleased that the Wilmington Housing Authority will be able to replace their roof. It is extremely important that this development is maintained for the benefit of the residents of Wilmington," said Chairman Miceli.

Author will discuss common myths about food allergies

Dr. Michael Young, author of The Peanut Allergy Answer Book, will help separate myth from reality about food allergies at a presentation at The Nashoba Valley Asthma & Allergy Educational Support Group on Monday, Sept. 22 at 7:00 p.m. at the Nashoba Valley Medical Center in Ayer, MA.

Dr. Young will discuss and answer questions about such topics as new research on food allergies, "outgrowing" and testing for food allergies, and how to prevent and treat anaphylaxis - the severe allergic reaction that can be fatal. Copies of the new second edition of his book will be available for sale. There is no charge to attend. There will be time for questions and informal group discussion.

Dr. Young is Assistant Clinical Professor of Pediatrics at Harvard Medical School and practices at Children's Hospital, Boston. He will be introduced by Leominster allergist Jordan Scott, MD, who serves as Medical Advisor to the support group.

"This program is for the ever-growing circle of people concerned about food allergies: childcare providers, teachers, neighbors, family and friends, as well as those with food allergies or their parents," says Sharon Schumack, Director of Education for the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, New England Chapter, which is sponsoring the meeting.

This is the first meeting of the fall season for the Nashoba Valley support group, and the first at its new meeting location at the Nashoba Valley Medical Center in Ayer. In previous years, meetings were held in Westford, MA.

AAFA New England organizes educational support group programs throughout the region, publishes a newsletter, and runs a telephone resource and referral line for people coping with allergies and asthma. WHAT A SECTION 79 PLAN CAN DO

Want to beef up retirement savings beyond what a 401(k) or profit-sharing plan can do? A supplementary Section 79 plan lets you pile up more tax-favored assets.

Named for a section of the tax code, these plans involve insurance and can provide such perks as group-term life insurance, and cash-value buildup for business owners and employees. Another plus: they are not subject to the contribution limits on retirement plans. Premiums may be deductible by the company, yet employees are not taxed on extra income. In addition, the plans are portable; the employee owns the policy.

Two caveats: These plans are available only to C corporations, or if owners elect to have an LLC taxed as a C corporation. In a pass-through entity, any owner of 2 percent of the company cannot participate. And another: before signing up with an insurance agent selling to you, do talk with a tax professional.

Talk to the tax professionals who know your business: the folks at Joyce K. Brisbois, C.P.A. P.O. Box 1003 Heritage Commons 11 Middlesex Ave., Ste 1&2 Wilmington, MA 01887 978-658-5034 - office 978-658-5717 - FAX jkbrisbois@aol.com - Email

Betsy's Best Bets

by Betsy Woods McGuire

The Endless Summer

It is sufficiently clear that all things are changed, and nothing really perishes, and that the sum of the matter remains absolutely the same. (Francis Bacon)

As the days of summer wind down, I continue to go to the lake, the ocean and the coastal communities just as often. There's something about that off-season feeling that I love. It's part let-down and relief that the pressure to be "going" and "doing" and "vacationing" is over. And there are those self-indulgent, mellow, bitter-sweet thoughts too, but I really can't put my finger on why I look forward to the end of summer so much. For me, having to pull on a sweater at the beach is pure pleasure.

Crane and Wingersheek are my favorite beaches - both are pristine and breathtakingly beautiful. Every visit to either of these north shore beaches leaves me tranquilized and awestruck at the wonder of Mother Nature. But for eccentricity and outlandish entertainment, great shops, restaurants and the National Seashore, you can't beat Provincetown. As often as possible I head for P-town - there really is no place like it.

And that's all fine and dandy - and expensive. So when Labor Day rolls around my beach-going-habit takes a turn - I yearn for the city sojourn.

Founded in 1896 Revere Beach is the first public beach in the country. It was known as "the people's beach" from the beginning to this day, being used mostly by the working class. Located only four miles outside of Boston proper, running adjacent to the Revere Beach Boulevard and with nearby public transportation (MBTA and buses), this city beach is a perfect place for the urban dweller to get away to the ocean - free of charge and no car necessary. For those of us who drive, there are parking spaces continuously along the wall for the entire expanse of the beach. Talk about convenient.

Revere Beach has a long and colorful history. In the early years visitors from all over New England and beyond flocked to Revere Beach, filling the cottages and hotels. During the day over 200,000 bathers would dot the four mile long beach from one end to the other. In the evening thousands of vacationers and locals paraded along the boardwalk that was lined with dance halls, movie theaters, carousels, carnival rides, restaurants, concessions and more. For those of us who remember Revere Beach in its heyday, our memories are mainly of the amusements - the Whip, the Fun House, Dodgems, the Wild Mouse, the Virginia Reel and most of all, the CYCLONE! Probably the biggest and most extreme roller coaster in the United States, it traveled at 50 mph and climbed 100 feet. Now that it doesn't matter anymore, I can admit that I never went near the Cyclone - too scary for me. But I remember being secretly envious and quite impressed with my mother's stories of hopping on the bus from Charlestown, alone at about ten years old, going to Revere to ride the Cyclone. For those of you who remember Maggie, that shouldn't be surprising. And my father's idea of something to do on a hot summer night was to head for Revere. Having grown up in Chelsea, what else?

Gradually over the years the beach deteriorated and by the late 60s there was nothing left but cheap bars and empty buildings. It would be easy to believe that Mother Nature decided to step in and reclaim her child because the "Great Blizzard of '78" totally destroyed what was left of the "old" Revere Beach.

Today the area has been extensively revitalized. Gone is the honky-tonk, replaced with attractive high rise housing, wide clean sidewalks and restored pavilions. As you look across the deep blue of the Atlantic Ocean, the peninsulas of Nahant and Winthrop appear to be reaching for each other, embracing the half-moon bay, creating a magical masterpiece of art. But don't worry, Revere has not been gentrified - not by a long shot. Other beaches can't come close to the wide cross-section of humanity and characters - like the guy I saw recently, who had dyed his chest hair yellow and was wearing a Speedo the exact same color. Or what about all those old(er) biker types with long braided ponytails and sleeveless leather vests and the dark tanned dudes slowly cruising by in their classic cars, usually convertibles with the tops down. Then there's the curious practice of putting beach chairs up on the wall instead of out on the sand - how about those beachgoers who "rest" inside the S-shaped curvy design of the wall ... I could go on and on.

Aside from all of that, if I was to be honest with myself, the number one reason for going to Revere Beach is Kelly's. I have never gone to Revere Beach without having fried clams at Kelly's, many times in the middle of winter. A landmark since 1951, Kelly's clams are the best. Now that I think of it, everything at Kelly's is the best.

Plus, Revere Beach has some terrific special events throughout the good weather. The most spectacular being the Sand Spectacle Festival, now covered by the local and national media. As it is with ice carvings, the ability to create such unusual and dramatic sand sculptures is baffling to me. You just have to see them - guaranteed, your jaw will drop. And there's Kite Day, the Farmer's Market, concerts, fireworks - and yes, the sights, the view and the unexplainable feeling of belonging, especially when milling around in the crowd in front of Kelly's waiting for your name to be yelled out.

That's when I find myself discretely watching who walks by, or glancing out of the corner of my eye at the guy sitting next to me on the bench, protecting his clams from the warlike gulls. I'm looking for Peter, Elsie or Joanie or maybe Father Dom, the "sunglass trio." Roland Merullo said his book is fiction - that the characters are "made up" to use his words. Well ... I don't believe him. Merullo can say that - he has to, doesn't he? I remember reading Revere Beach Boulevard straight through, couldn't put it down. It didn't seem like fiction to me. And besides, I'm sure I spotted Eddie Crevine just last week.

Letters to the editor

Big yellow bus of comfort

Dear Editor,
I thought I would give a positive to the Wilmington Bus transportation under the direction of Susan Hardimon in our town.

You know the anxieties we all feel as parents as our children board the kindergarten bus for the first journey to kindergarten. Any fears our daughter Madison had were gone, and mine as well, due to her bus driver Jane, bus # 3.

Years ago, Madison's older sister Samantha rode the bus. At one point, she had pneumonia. Jane would beep the horn while passing the house and it made Samantha smile and it is those little things that you may not think about, but when we think of Jane we think of the smile and greeting that she gives to each of the children who pass her on the way to their seats. Every morning, with a "Good Morning Madison" from Jane, any fear of having your child leave for the day is diminished.

It is funny, but what our daughter was most excited about on her first day of kindergarten was not school, it was riding the big yellow bus with her friends. Here is our little angel boarding the Kindergarten bus with Jane in the picture.

Thank you, Susan, for helping and directing the children's bus schedules in town.

Community celebrates the life of Justin O'Neil

Dear Editor,
We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude for your continued support of the Justin Andrew O'Neil Memorial Scholarship fund. It is overwhelming to see how many people still come out to remember and celebrate Justin's life. Without the help and support of all of you this event could not take place and we certainly would not be as successful in raising the enormous amount that we do to award several scholarships to so many deserving Wilmington students each year. There are no words that can express how much your time and generosity means to us.

Summer Concert Series

To the Editor:
The Wilmington Recreation Department's thirty-first Annual Summer Concert Series has come to a close. This year the New England Swing Orchestra brought the Big Band sound to the Common with "A Tribute to Duke Ellington". The Reminisants took us on a musical tour beginning in the 50's & 60's, Mollie's Misfits brought us a touch of Ireland, and finally Ben Rudnick & Friends closed out the season with a family concert with sing along tunes familiar to old and young alike. The generosity of local businesses and organizations allowed us to bring the community together to enjoy summer in New England along with some great music on our Town Common.

Please join us as we thank Analog Devices, Century 21 Starwood, Danversbank, Dunkin Donuts at 195 Main Street, Dunkin Donuts at 321 Main Street, Hilb, Rogal & Hobbs Insurance, the Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank, the Ninety Nine Restaurant & Pub, the Wilmington Arts Council and the Massachusetts Cultural Council for sponsoring concerts this year. We would be remiss not to send special thanks along to the Wilmington Police Department for the assignment of Auxiliary Officers, the Fourth of July Committee for use of their facility and to Joan Maga for staffing the building during each concert.

We look forward to continuing this concert series for many years to come. We hope to see you on the Common again next year.

Sincerely,
Deborah Cipriani

2nd annual Stephen Hancox Memorial Motorcycle Run & BBQ Benefit

WILMINGTON - On October 4, 2008, we ride to remember Stephen Hancox and help support cancer patients and their families while undergoing treatment. If you do not ride, you can still register for the BBQ to help the cause, otherwise ride and stay for both.

The motorcycle run registration starts at 8:30am, October 4, and will depart at 10:00am Sharp. The run will be a scenic route to Gloucester and back, the BBQ is from 1:00pm - 8:00pm (+). The benefit begins and ends at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks, 777 South Street, Tewksbury, MA 01876. All donations are greatly appreciated. Please visit the website for more information at www.StephenHancox.com to register, or stop by, or mail to Tara Hancox Hancox Kitchens 335 Main Street Wilmington, MA 01887. Tickets are $25 per person, our goal is to help as many families we can and raise over $15,000 for this year's benefit.

Sincerely,
The Family of Stephen Hancox

Moving Wall: Wilmington History

Dear Editor,
"We live in interesting times." This famous and often quoted statement is particularly applicable now. Consider the world around us. Iran, North Korea and Russia, our old and familiar adversaries once again threaten global security. Hurricanes are reaking havoc on our shores and are stacked up in queue in the Atlantic, making us seriously consider the possibility that Mr. Gore may have been on to something with his Inconvenient Truths. We are still in conflict in Iraq, even though our soldiers continue to make heroic progress bringing unfamiliar peace, freedom and security to that country. And, we are entrenched in the muck and mire of a contentious Presidential election, one that, conceivably, could be the most important election of this generation. Here in Wilmington, we are living our lives, working at our jobs, raising our families and paying our taxes. Faced with the ongoing challenge of industrial pollution, NE Transrail, housing development, traffic congestion, and a high school needing replacement soon, we have ample amount of issues with which to concern ourselves. I feel confident that I speak for many residents when I say that there just are not enough hours in the day. When you're moving forward at full speed in five different directions, it is difficult to take time to think of the past; how we got here, how lucky we are to live the way we do, and of the sacrifices previous generations have made to get us here. The arrival of The Moving Wall to Wilmington's Town Common next week will provide us with a unique opportunity to take that time.

The Moving Wall is a 50% size replica of the Vietnam War Memorial in Washington, DC. It contains the names of all service people killed in action during the Vietnam War, including the names of four of Wilmington's sons. Think about it, the Vietnam War ended over thirty years ago. For a large portion of our population, that pre-dates their birth. I was nine years old when the fighting ended, and I have to admit that I don't remember being particularly aware of what was going on there at that time. For my generation and those younger, the Vietnam War is a chapter in a history book or a collection of links on a Google search. It is easy to think of that war as not directly connected to us in our time. Another portion of our population remembers those years vividly. They suffered during some of our country's darkest days. They watched American heroes in Vietnam die on television, while those who returned home were unfairly vilified. Many among us served in Vietnam, lost loved ones and friends there, and were changed forever.

The Moving Wall coming to Wilmington allows people of ALL ages and generations, from the oldest to the youngest, to see and touch and be witness to an important symbol of American patriotism and heroism. While The Wall is specifically a memorial to the Vietnam War heroes, it serves as a reminder to us of the sacrifices made by Americans in the pursuit of security, human rights, and defense of our American values and way of life. It reminds of those who served in every war and battle from the Revolution to the Civil War, two World Wars, Korea, Vietnam, all the conflicts in between and of course the men and women actively doing their duty on our behalf in Iraq and Afghanistan.

As a father of two young children (2nd and 3rd grade), I am very excited to bring them to The Wall. Perhaps I will spare them the gory details of what occurs in war. But, I will make sure that they witness the ceremonies paying tribute to the various service people in the military and our community. I know that The Wall's presence here will be a memory that my kids carry with them for the rest of their lives and that it will help them appreciate those who came before them and suffered for something bigger than themselves. I know that everyone who witnesses The Wall in our town will cherish and benefit from the experience. I challenge every resident of Wilmington, and anyone else from the area, to carve time out of your regular busy life to come and be a part of what will most assuredly become a part of Wilmington history.

The Moving Wall will be on display on Wilmington Common from September 18th straight through September 22, 24 hours a day. Details of the schedule of events and times of the ceremonies will be published in next week's newspaper and displayed on www.themovingwallwilmington.com

We all owe it to ourselves, to our forebears, and to our children to take advantage of this opportunity to honor the sacrifices made by the few on behalf of the many. I am proud to have had the privilege of working on The Moving Wall Wilmington '08 Committee. I know that I will be proud of Wilmington when The Wall is here. When The Wall leaves us on September 22, we will all go on with our regular lives. But, perhaps, with a deeper appreciation for the sacrifices others make that ensure we are able to do so.

Let's Hear it!!

Your Two Cents...

I have recently become an avid patron of Foley Farm. They are a family-owned farm located at the corner of West St. and Kilmarnock. They have such a wonderful selection of organic vegies as well as beautiful mums. If they don't have what you're looking for...just ask! I recently went looking for a variety of fall plants, and Mr. Foley let me drive around into the garden, pick out the plants that I liked, and dug them up for me! So, if your looking for fresh vegies and fall mums, you have to check out the little farm right here in our backyard!!!

A tribute

Walter "Killer" Kowalski: the Wrestling Legend

By: Colleen West, age 12

Walter "Killer" Kowalski was a great man. He still is a great wrestling legend. Kowalski just recently passed away and one of his last events was on November 18, 2007. This event was the Toys For Tots charity in Wilmington, MA.

Kowalski volunteered to do an autograph signing for the Marine Corp. Toys For Tots on November 18, 2007. I am one of the many who had the honor of meeting this wrestling legend. At this time, he was 81 years old and seemed so full of life. Many arrived to see this man and all left overjoyed to have spoken to Kowalski.

Speaking to Kowalski was like speaking to an average person. Although I didn't have much time with him, I did learn this about him. He didn't want much, just to make the people he saw satisfied and he got what he asked for and more. Kowalski never asked for special treatment or anything of the sort. He was one of those legends that if you saw him walking down the street, he would stop and say hello and have a friendly conversation with you. Nobody expected him to leave forever until he had that one heart attack. The doctors didn't think he would make it overnight, but he was still with us for three more weeks.

After three weeks Kowalski could no longer fight it, so he died. All the people who had the honor of meeting him will never forget what he had done for everyone. The charities, the donations, the laughs, all were part of his giving personality. Those he met and those who had the honor of seeing him wrestle will never forget the joy he brought to others and themselves. Walter Kowalski was a great legend, but most of all he was a great man, and a friend to all of those who met him.

Thank you for everything, Mr. Kowalski. May God's angels bring you to Heaven on a golden chariot for all of the people you touched.

LONG LIVE THE MEMORY OF WALTER KOWALSKI, A GREAT MAN!!

I want to say how much I appreciate the Wilmington of yesteryear columns every week. It is fascinating to learn about the previous generations of people that have lived and worked in Wilmington through the years. Their lives have shaped the character of our wonderful town and it is good to remember and appreciate their stories.

Winchester Hospital offers hypnotherapy certification program

Ted Benton, a certified hypnotherapist at the Winchester Hospital Community Health Institute, will offer a hypnotherapy certification program on October 4-5 and November 1-2. A respected author who has appeared on national television, Benton works as an international hypnotherapy instructor who holds numerous certifications for advanced hypnosis training through the American Psychological Association and other organizations.

Hypnotherapy, or therapy applied to an individual who is under hypnosis, can be effective in treating a wide range of conditions including phobias, habit elimination and modification, anxiety and stress-related illness. Hypnotherapy also has medical applications including pain management and child birth.

Hypnotherapy certification consists of 100 hours of independent and classroom study. The program includes an introduction to Ericksonian hypnosis, hypnosis and child birthing, medical and dental applications for hypnosis, pain management, hypnosis with children, habit elimination or modification, age regression, a wide variety of hypnotic inductions and techniques, and the elimination of phobias. This program is approved for 32 continuing education units (CEUs) for nurses and social workers. Graduates may join the American Board of Hypnotherapy.

The cost of the program is $1,600 including all textbooks and materials. The tuition is a tax deduction. The first payment of $800 is due at the time of registration, with final payment due at the first class. If you refer another student who registers in the same session, $100 will be deducted from your registration fee.

All classes are held at the Winchester Hospital Community Health Institute, Baldwin Park I, 12 Alfred St., Suite 207 in Woburn. To register or learn more, call (781) 756-4700 or visit www.winchesterhospital.org and click on Programs and Services/ Community Health Institute/ Alternative Therapies/ Hypnotherapy.

Linden Tree Coffeehouse's opens for its 24th season

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse begins its 24th season of acoustic music concerts on Saturday, October 4th at 8pm. The season will include a mix of nationally known singer songwriters and bands with regional favorites. Coffeehouse regulars know that they will see a quality live acoustic music show in a friendly non-smoking atmosphere. The schedule includes a mix of music from traditional to contemporary folk singers each with their own instrumental styles. Unlike large auditorium concerts, the Linden Tree Coffeehouse's shows are intimate, everyone can see and hear well, and meet the performers after the show. It is a non-profit venue, but professionally run by its volunteers. By popular demand, the opening night of this season features encore performances from City of Roses.

With heart-felt vocals and knock-your-socks-off harmonies, City of Roses has become one of New England's premier acoustic acts. Their sound flows smoothly from folk to rock, country to blues, reminiscent of CS&N, Emmylou Harris, Maria Muldaur and Manhattan Transfer. The group, celebrating their tenth year together, is made up of three talented singer songwriters, Michelle Tanguay, Linda Lucia Picceri, and Stephen Gilligan. Collectively they bring over thirty years experience performing throughout the Greater New England area including the 2006 Boston Folk Festival.

One gets a full musical experience with City of Roses, as they match their lyrics with complex and interesting compositions, and their sophisticated musicianship with intricate vocals. One special feature of City of Roses is their first music video "Pleasure Island Road," an original composition about Wakefield's famed theme park of the 1960's. The song itself is found on their second CD, Take a Second Look. City of Roses delivers the kind of crowd-pleasing performance that stays with you long after you leave the show. Find them online at www.cityofroses.net.

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse is located in the social hall of the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 326 Main Street, Wakefield, MA. Tickets for this show will be $15 and available at the door beginning at 7:30 pm. Home baked goodies and other refreshments will be sold before the show and during intermission. The Linden Tree Coffeehouse is supported in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, Wakefield chapter. For more information and reservations: call 781-246-2836 or visit www.LindenTreeCoffeehouse.org.

Danversbank announces Tank You Sweepstakes

Winner to receive free gas for one year

WILMINGTON

Danversbank is pleased to announce the kickoff of its Tank You Sweepstakes in Wilmington, in celebration of the relocation of its branch to 247 Main Street. Danversbank is the principal subsidiary of Danvers Bancorp, Inc. (NASDAQ: DNBK).

Danversbank opened an office at 579 Main Street, Wilmington in 2001. The new branch is more than double the size of the old one - 2,500 square feet as opposed to only 1,200. It offers a two-lane drive-up with a pneumatic tube, as well as both a drive-up ATM and one in the lobby. "We're thrilled to be in a bigger location," said Holly Nahabedian, Branch Manager. "Being in a more central location, in a newly revitalized section of town, helps us better serve our existing customers - and attract new ones. My staff and I are very excited."

A total of three winners will be chosen in the Tank You Sweepstakes on September 30, 2008. The grand prize winner will receive free gas for a year, valued at $3,900, paid out in Shell gift cards. The second prize winner will receive a $500 gift card to Best Buy and the third prize winner will receive a $250 gift card to Target.

Customers and non-customers alike are welcome to participate; no purchase is necessary. Entry forms are available at the Danversbank branch at 247 Main Street, or from a member of the Danversbank Courtesy Crew, which will be passing them out around the town during the weeks of September 8th and September 15th.

For more information visit www.danversbank.com.

About Danversbank

The bank was founded in 1850 and is a 1.5 billion dollar financial institution operating out of sixteen locations in Andover, Beverly, Chelsea, Danvers (2), Malden (2), Middleton, Peabody, Reading, Revere, Salem (2), Saugus, Wilmington and Woburn. The bank also has a full service Commercial Banking office at One Post Office Square in Boston. For more information, call the Customer Support Center at 1-800-771-8200.

Lowell Spinners in Championship Round

Playoff tickets on sale now

Spinners hold 1-0 lead in Division Series over Batavia Muckdogs

LOWELL - The wait was well worth it. For the first time in the 13-year history of the franchise, the Lowell Spinners, Class-A affiliate of the Boston Red Sox, reached the playoffs. After a dramatic walk-off, extra-innings win Monday evening to take a 1-0 lead over the Batavia Muckdogs in the best-of-three series, tickets to a potential Championship Series are now on sale.

Beginning today, tickets are now on sale for Round Two, Home Game One, to be played at LeLachur Park. Depending on the following scenarios, the date of the game could vary.

Should the Spinners defeat the Muckdogs, they would face the winner of the Jamestown/Staten Island series, where the Jammers currently hold a 1-0 lead.

If Lowell and Jamestown were to both win in two games, the Championship Series would start Thursday in Jamestown, with home games in Lowell Saturday and Sunday (if necessary). Should one team need more than two games to win the series, home games in Lowell would be Sunday and Monday (if necessary).

Should the Staten Island Yankees and Spinners advance, the Spinners would open the Championship Round in Lowell Friday night, before traveling to Staten Island for games on Saturday and Sunday (if necessary).

Fans interested in being a part of Spinners history can purchase playoff tickets via the internet at lowellspinners.com, by phone at 978-459-1702 or at Spinners Box Office. Phone and box office hours are Monday through Friday 11 a.m. - 3 p.m.

Prices will remain the same as regular season tickets. Reserved seats are $5, box seats are $7 and premium box seats are $8.

The Spinners were victorious Monday night in Game One over the Muckdogs, 4-3, tying the game in the ninth inning on a Will Middlebrooks home run and winning the game in the 12th on a bases loaded walk to Ryan Dent. First pitch for Game Two, Tuesday in Batavia is scheduled for 7:05 p.m.

For more information, contact Jon Boswell at jboswell@lowellspinners.com or by phone at 978-805-5117.

A PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(never known to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my request. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succor me in this request; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Sweet Mother, I place this request in your hands. (3 times)

Say for 3 consecutive days and publish. God Bless

Being here and being there...

Here and there.

Here is Wilmington and Tewksbury.

There is the State House in Boston.

It's a fine line between spending time at home listening and responding to the local concerns and spending time in Boston making sure that Wilmington and Tewksbury get their fair share of local aid and special funds.

Jim Miceli has consistently been able to do both.

At home, Jim has been lauded by elders, praised by special needs advocates, respected by educators, and warmly received by community leaders.

At the State House, Jim has been recognized for his advocacy of his district, his tough stance against taxes, his aggressiveness for our elders and children, and his development of an intern program for students anxious to learn about state government.

Kimberly Gentile named to Dean's List at Ithaca College

ITHACA, N.Y. - Kimberly Gentile, daughter of Wilmington residents Alan and Nancy Gentile, was named to the Dean's List at Ithaca College's Roy H. Park School of Communications for the spring 2008 term. To qualify for this academic honor, students must attain a minimum grade point average of 3.7 and complete a minimum of 15 credit hours, of which at least 12 are graded. A grade of D or F or an incomplete in a course automatically disqualifies a student from the dean's list, regardless of the overall GPA attained that semester.

Coeducational and nonsectarian, Ithaca College is a nationally recognized independent college of some 6,300 undergraduates and 400 graduate students. Located in Ithaca, New York, the college offers more than 100 degree programs.

Take a step back in time

WILMINGTON - On Sunday, September 28, 2008 between 1:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m., The Friends of the Harnden Tavern Wilmington will again take a step back in time to the 18th century with the 4th Annual Harvest Festival at the Harnden Tavern on route 62. This festival provides a chance to see what life was like in the local Revolutionary War era.

Senior Lunches

Week of Sept. 15, 2008

Monday: Herb roasted chicken, baked potato, carrots, whole wheat roll, peaches.

Tuesday: Turkey nuggets, roasted potatoes, green beans, multi-grain bread, apricots, snack loaf.

Wednesday: Breaded pork chops, whipped potato, corn, lite rye bread, pears, smoothie.

Thursday: Steak tips, rice pilaf, broccoli, oatmeal bread, orange wedges.

Friday: Baked ham with pineapple, sweet potatoes, peas, whole wheat bread, apple slices.

Among the activities will be candle-making, period cooking demonstrations, as well as spinning and quilting. Several of these activities will be hands-on for children of all ages. This year, we will have Dean Rantz, as an 18th century traveling blacksmith. Mr. Rantz has worked as a blacksmith and brings the art to life for all to see. See how he will add the finest details to a wrought iron piece he works on. Some of his items will be available for purchase.

Storyteller, Ed Murray will be speaking about local folklore. His storytelling skills will be on display at 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30. Mr. Murray will bring some Native American artifacts that have been discovered at Breakheart Reservation.

Tours of the Joshua Harnden Tavern and Museum will also be available. There will also be an antique tool exhibit on display.

For more information on this event, contact the Joshua Harnden Tavern and Museum at 978-658-5475.

About Dean Rantz

Dean Rantz has been a "Practicing Blacksmith" since 1982. He operates, Rock Village Forge in Middleborough, MA. He creates and recreates 'hand forged' iron work using traditional tools and techniques and specializes in restoration hardware. Mr. Rantz received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Art History and Sculpture from Massachusetts College of Art. He can be seen demonstrating his craft at historical societies, house museums, colonial reenactments harvest fairs and festivals throughout Eastern Massachusetts. Some of his restoration work has been done at historical places such as the Longfellow's Wayside Inn in Sudbury, Mass., The Brown House in Providence, R.I., The Shirley Eustis House in Roxbury/Boston, Mass., The Job Lane House in Bedford, Mass., The Harlow and Hedge houses-Plymouth Antiquarian Society in Plymouth, Mass., The Golden Ball Tavern in Weston, Mass. and The Thayer House Braintree, Mass.

The New England Grassroots Environment Fund energizes and nurtures long-term civic engagement in local initiatives that create and maintain healthy, just, safe and environmentally sustainable communities. The New England Grassroots Environment Fund grants dollars, networking and skills-building opportunities to community groups working on local environmental projects throughout New England. Harvest festival scheduled for September 27th

The entire community invited to stop by the traditional New England fair

The Wilmington United Methodist Church, a member of the Protestant denomination in Massachusetts and located at 87 Church Street, has announced that their first ever Harvest Festival will be held on church grounds on Saturday, September 27th from 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. with a rain date scheduled for October 4th.

"The Harvest Festival is reminiscent of the old-time New England fairs," said festival chairperson, Tracy Arvanitis. "Like those events, our fair will feature many juried crafters and independent home businesses, as well as locally grown apples, pumpkins, and cornstalks." In addition, Arvanitis anticipates that with the current economy and focus on recycling, the white elephant area and second-hand jewelry table will be big attractions.

Come hungry, as there will be plenty of delicious home-cooked food served throughout the day including slices of homemade pies, apple crisp, and donuts, as well as hot and cold beverages. If you're in the mood for something more substantial, you can lunch on chili and cornbread, meatball subs or grilled sausages and peppers. Whatever your tastes, you are sure to find something good to eat.

Visitors are encouraged to bring children, as there will be a craft table just for them along with many ideas on suggested Christmas gifts for family and friends. Profits from some of the booths will be used to support church-sponsored ministries in the areas of youth, mission, women and children.

The festival will be held outside under the big top with plenty of free parking and free admission. For more information, call the church office at 978-658-4519 or email Tracy Arvanitis at wumc-fair@gmail.com.

Cut for the Cure at Tewksbury hair salon

In August, the Tewksbury hair salon, Bruce Cameron, a contemporary salon for men and women, was privileged to team up with the American Cancer Society to host an event called Cut for the Cure. The community responded phenomenally.

The fun began after spending the greater part of the morning putting everything in its place. Preparations included the placement of a giant sign displaying the event, setting out refreshments and making sure that all of the members of the salon dressed in pink.

As the salon opened its doors, members of the community opened their hearts to show their support for such a worthy cause. Throughout the day a constant stream of customers filled the salon to help the Bruce Cameron team raise money for the American Cancer Society. Thanks to the support of the community and the efforts of all those who took part in the event, the salon raised over $250 for Cut for the Cure.

Owner of the salon, Bruce Cameron, offers, "The generosity of the community could not possibly be more appreciated and our salon team is looking forward to working with the American Cancer Society again in 3 months, when we will host a second event to raise money in the fight against cancer. So, be on the lookout for details pertaining to the next event and do something great for yourself. That just might mean the world to another person."

Program at Boston College, Stephanie is majoring in English with a minor in environmental studies.

In addition to her academic studies, Ms. Parker is an active member of the Quality of Student Life Committee.

Paul Bova to become Assistant Vice President of Alumni & Volunteer Relations at Norwich University

Paul Bova has worked for Norwich since 2002, most recently as Senior Development Officer. In his new position he will be responsible for all alumni, parent, and volunteer relations programs, as well as career services. Paul will oversee management of all Norwich clubs and alumni affairs, including special events such as Homecoming and Parent & Family Weekend.

Paul will also remain involved with a limited amount of development work in support of the Norwich Forever! campaign and future University campaigns.

"I am truly honored even to have been considered for this position, and I really look forward to continue serving President Schneider, the Trustees, and, most importantly, our constituents. Norwich is a great place that means so much to so many people, and it has been a privilege to work with so many dedicated and hard-working people."

A native of Wilmington, Massachusetts, Paul graduated from Norwich in 1988 as a Communications major. Prior to joining the Office of Development and Alumni Relations, he worked at Cross Country Automotive Services in Medford, MA, and Lindenmyer-Munroe in North Reading, MA. Since his return to The Hill six years ago, Paul has served as the University's Habitat for Humanity student advisor, travelling with students to New Orleans to work on construction projects during spring break for the past three years. He has hosted the Central Vermont student send-off for the past five years.

Paul lives in Montpelier with his wife, Lisa, and their three children.

Tewksbury Board of Health to host National Emergency Preparedness event

September is National Emergency Preparedness month. To help residents become better prepared, the Tewksbury Health Department is working with the Upper Merrimack Valley Medical Reserve Corps to host a 72-Hour Emergency Kit event, which will take place on Tuesday, September 23 at the Town Hall on 1009 Main Street.

At 7 p.m. on Thursday, residents may attend a session to learn about preparedness and how to assemble a 72-hour kit.

Please consider whether your family has sufficient emergency supplies in your home. To help you address this top priority issue, come to assemble your kit with previously purchased supplies, to ensure that your family is better prepared.

Take advantage of greatly discounted pricing obtained through bulk purchasing, and avoid the hassle of running around to gather needed supplies. One-stop shopping! Your $50 pre-payment will cover a backpack, emergency disaster guide, crank flashlight and radio, tarp, tent, educational materials, and various first aid and emergency supplies.

After assembling your kit, you are invited to stay and learn about the local unit of the national Medical Reserve Corps program. The information session is free and is open to anyone who'd like to stop by at 7:30 p.m. to learn about the MRC.

Registration and a $50 check per kit, payable to the Tewksbury Health Department, are due by September 10. Reserve your kit - and remember: they make great gifts! Mail or drop off your check to the Tewksbury Health Department, 999 Whipple Road, Tewksbury MA, 01876. For more information, please call 978-640-4470, x230.

What is that old lamp worth?

Get Your Attic Treasures Appraised!

The Tewksbury Public Library at 300 Chandler Street will be hosting two exciting events in September focused on antiques and collectibles. On Wednesday, September 17, at 6:30 PM, join nationally known expert, author, and appraiser, Paul Royka, for a lively discussion of the Fine Art and Antiques Market. Paul is the owner of Royka's Gallery at 213 Newbury Street in Boston where he provides fine art, antiques, appraisal, auctions and consulting services for private individuals, banks, trust departments, museums and institutions. He has appeared on Antiques Roadshow and has been featured or mentioned in Business Week, Reader's Digest, and many other publications. Learn about the fine art and antiques market, scandals, and insider news during his Wednesday discussion. Then, armed with what you've learned, come back to the Tewksbury Public Library on Saturday, September 20, from 10:00-2:00 PM to have your attic treasure appraised by Paul Royka. Discover what your items are worth!

Appraisals are $10 for one item and $25 for three items. Bring in your Americana, antiques, bronzes, ceramics, clocks, dolls & toys, folk art, lamps, pottery, paintings, and more. (No weapons, coins, stamps, jewelry, rugs or ancient antiquities). Verbal appraisals only. All proceeds will benefit the Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library. This is a great opportunity to have those treasures appraised while supporting your local Library. Haven't you always wondered what its worth? For more information please visit our website www.tewksburypl.org or call Freya Sanger at (978) 640-4490 ext.207.

Organist to give Solo Recital at West Parish Church

ANDOVER - On Sunday, October 5 at 7 p.m. organist Andrus Madsen presents a solo recital of chorale preludes, toccatas and fugues by Johann Pachelbel who brought the South German organ tradition to its peak. Pachelbel wrote much more than a Canon. This program will feature the best of Pachelbel's organ music in anticipation of an upcoming CD which Mr Madsen will record in Germany this month. Andrus Madsen will play the historic American organ at West Parish Church, 129 Reservation Road in Andover MA. Admission to the concert is by suggested donation of $15, with all proceeds to benefit the music program at West Parish Church.

West Parish's organ is a new tracker action instrument designed and built by B. Rule & Co. incorporating many parts of earlier New England instruments. The keyboards and windchests are from Johnson & Son, Op. 704, 1888. Much of the pipework is from an 1858 organ which served two churches in Malden. The Johnson chassis and Malden pipes were provided by the Organ Clearing House. New flue pipes, including those in the case, were made by Paul Byron (York ME), while the new pedal 16' Trombone was made in Germany by Roland Killinger's S u d d e u t s c h e Orgelpfeifenfabrik. The hand-painted decorative graining on the circa 1865 case built by John Clisbee & Son (Marlboro, MA) has been lovingly repaired and restored.

Andrus Madsen, originally from Provo UT, resides in Newton MA where he serves as Music Director at Second Church in Newton. He studied Organ at Brigham Young University with Douglas Bush, and later did degrees in Harpsichord and Musicology at the Eastman School of Music (Rochester NY), studying at the harpsichord with Arthur Haas. Following his graduate work, Mr. Madsen studied clavichord and fortepiano with Peter Sykes. Mr. Madsen performs frequently on the harpsichord, clavichord and organ as both a chamber musician and solo performer, with concerts throughout the New England area and at New York's Carnegie Hall. He is the director and founder of Newton Baroque, and plays in the ensemble La Sylva. Mr. Madsen uses his musicology background to recreate 17th- and 18th-century salon concerts, which he peppers with just enough history discussion to further vivify the music.

Board members tried to reassure Cave that they are working to improve communication and understanding of the agricultural industry.

Specifically, the Board of Health says that the farm is not keeping the capacity of the pig waste tank below one-third full, or at a 24-inch depth. The entire depth of the tank is 72 inches, or six feet. During an inspection August 15, Clement measured the depth of the tank at 33 inches. On the date of the hearing, September 4, a State Department of Environmental Protection inspector visiting the farm measured the depth at 26 inches. Clement stated that the depth remained above the maximum 24 inches the entire summer.

Cave dismissed the measuring device used by Clement as a "piece of scrap metal," though Clement reports that a DEP representative created the device. Cave also denied remembering agreeing to the order requirements and disregarded Chairman Ralph McHatton's comment that the Board has the power to issue such orders when matters of public health are concerned.

"Where is the scientific data that the depth of the tank causes odor at 33 inches as compared to 24 inches or a foot? Your requirement is not based on scientific data," said Cave.

The Board did not respond to the question, but reminded Cave that he agreed to the one-third measure at the June meeting with his attorney.

Then Cave told the Board that the tank has an 8-inch 'lip', which could throw measurements. However, Clement claims the blueprints of the tank do not show the lip and that on her visits to the site, it was never mentioned nor pointed out to her, nor was Cave's dissatisfaction with the measuring stick.

The second area of non-compliance, says the Board, is with regard to waste removal. Cave stopped having loads of manure hauled to a wastewater treatment plant in June because the costs are prohibitive. Instead, the loads of waste are being hauled to Krochmal property in Wilmington and composted.

Finally, the Board asserts that Cave has not followed the requirement to obtain a nutrient management plan appropriately. Nutrient management plans are used by farms to scientifically determine the best crops to plant to use the mixture of compounds within the manure and available in the soil. Cave claims he did obtain a plan, and indeed brought it with him to the meeting to show members, after working with the Natural Resource Service (NRS). But Cave refuses to file the information with the town.

"You know Dave Powers?" Cave asked the Board, referring to the founder of TewksburyOdor.org. "Well, I don't want it up on his website."

TewksburyOdor.org is a website that presents research of the health risks of living close to an active pig-gery, offers possible solutions for mitigating the odors from industry and academic sources, and gives a place for like-minded residents to post their own testimonials. Powers created the website after his calls for action seemed to be ignored. He states that the Massachusetts

Department of Agricultural Resources stopped returning his calls and that local officials told him repeatedly that he was one of only two people complaining.

Cave says he offered to show the plan to Clement at his farm but under advice from Town Counsel, Clement declined. As a town employee, showing the plan to her still makes it public record. As such, the Board upheld the requirement to file the plan with the town.

Currently the farm is composting the waste on the Wilmington portion of the farm. Typically the farm moves about 6,000 gallons per week or about three loads. The farm composts pig manure Monday through Friday, though Cave said they try to do the bulk of the work by Wednesday.

Yet, Clement told the Board that at 3:30 the afternoon of the hearing the DEP representative told her the farm had composted six loads, or 15,000 gallons, in 48 hours, more than twice the normal amount done in a week.

Cave responded, "How would you know what standard practice is?" He attributes the smell not to compost but the tank cooling at night after warm daytime temperatures.

Cave likened the Board's aggressive stance to a 'witch hunt' and a 'lynching.' He says the town does not make the same requirements for other farms in town or those 20 other permit holders for the keeping of animals.

"Why are we singled out?" asked Cave?

Board of Health member Christine Kinnon said that the board received many complaints about the piggery at the farm.

Cave replied that there are no odors being produced due to negligence and that the farm is in compliance with state and federal regulations.

And yet, there are still odors. McHatton remarked that he can smell the farm from Interstate 93 and asked how that is possible to which Cave responded it may be skunk cabbage that grows near the highway.

Cave stated that the smell tends to increase at night, when warm days are followed by cool evenings. The manure odor increases as the waste releases heat when the temperature drops. Clement remarked that the smell fluctuates during the day but most acknowledged an odor increase in the early evening hours, supporting Cave's claim.

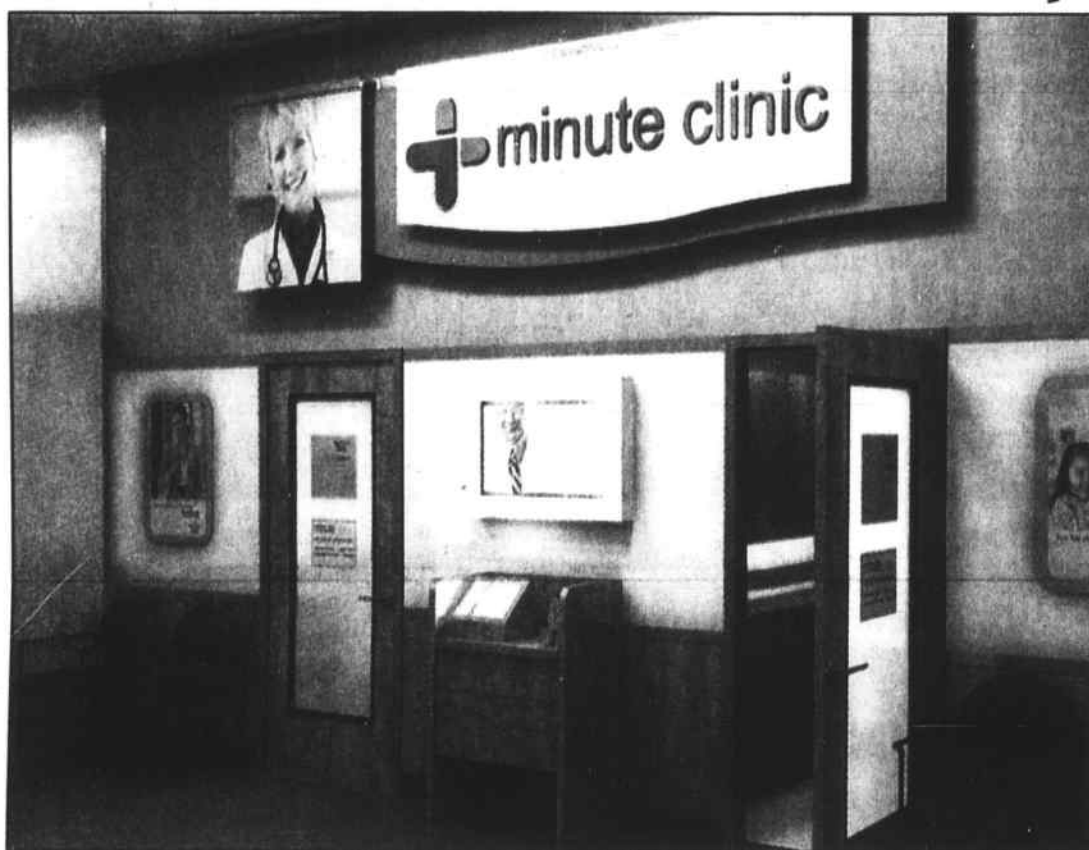

The meeting came just one week before a public meeting scheduled for the Trahan School September 11 where the community will be able to listen to speakers from the Sierra Club and U-Mass Lowell and offer feedback about farm odors to the representatives of the Board of Selectmen, the Board of Health, and State Representative James Miceli.

tions other than flu vaccines. Additionally, the nurse practitioners in the MinuteClinic will refer patients back to their primary care providers when needed.

"We're pleased that this new model of health care delivery in Massachusetts has moved forward," said Rheume. "These clinics are not meant to be substitutes for primary healthcare but make it easier to provide care for minor ailments in low costs settings rather than emergency rooms and that's important as we move toward healthcare reform in Massachusetts."

Winchester Hospital offers free lecture on robotic surgery

Winchester Hospital invites community members to attend a free lecture and hands-on demonstration of robotic surgery on Thursday, Sept. 25, 1 to 3 p.m., at The Sheraton Colonial Hotel located at One Audubon Road in Wakefield.

Board certified urologist Martha Dyer, MD will explain how minimally invasive robotic technology takes surgery beyond the limits of the human hand, introducing precise, versatile instrument movement combined with three-dimensional visualization of the operative site. With the state-of-the-art da Vinci™ Surgical System, Winchester Hospital surgeons are able to perform major pelvic surgery, including surgery for cancer, with unmatched precision and control, using only a few small incisions. Patients benefit from fewer complications; less pain, blood loss, and scarring; faster recovery; and a shorter hospital stay than through traditional open procedures. Robotic surgery is also considered an improved option for obese patients, for whom open surgery presents substantial risk of wound infection and poor healing.

It's important for patients in the local area to know they don't need to travel to Boston for access to this cutting-edge technology, which offers so many quality-of-life benefits," said Dr. Dyer.

The session will include a hands-on demonstration in which participants may sit at the console, look through the 3-D vision system with magnification, and manipulate the robotic arms. A light lunch will be served.

Winchester Hospital, which is expanding its regional cancer program at 620 Washington St. in Winchester, offers robotic surgery as part of a full range of services to diagnose, treat and care for patients with cancer. The Winchester Hospital staff includes a highly skilled team of expert, board certified hematologists and oncologists, oncology certified nurses, radiation oncologists, surgeons, pathologists, urologists and radiologists to provide comprehensive care for patients with cancer.

Additionally, Winchester Hospital offers many support groups and services to aid cancer patients and their families during and following treatment, including a full-time social worker to assist in navigating the treatment process; the administration of radiation therapy, infusion therapy and chemotherapy; blood and platelet transfusions; education and preventative services; nutrition consultations; integrative therapies including acupuncture, hypnotherapy, massage, Reiki and yoga; A Caring Place boutique offering prostheses, head coverings and clothing with personalized fittings; a child life specialist for children with a parent receiving treatment; referrals to clinical trials whenever medically appropriate; pastoral care; and a compassionate environment that welcomes family members, friends and others who are meaningful members of patients' support teams.

Located just 10 miles north of Boston, Winchester Hospital offers free, on-site parking and valet service.

To register for the free "Minimally Invasive Surgery Through Robotic Technology" lecture and demonstration, call (781) 756-4740 by September 17. To learn more about gynecologic and urologic oncology, visit www.winchesterhospital.org.

WHS Football Preview

Winning still top priority despite new coach, schedule

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

This Friday will mark another season opener for the Wilmington High School varsity football team, but so many things will be different. First of all, there's a new man running the show as 12-year assistant coach Mike Barry takes over for Bob Almeida, who took the same position at Malden Catholic back in February. Secondly, this year's schedule is much different as the Wildcats will no longer play Amesbury, Ipswich and Newburyport, and instead have picked up non-league contests with Lexington and Shawsheen Tech, and will play Lynnfield again as a Cape Ann League cross over game. And lastly, this year's team doesn't have a kid named Ernie Mello, and his All-Scholastic resume including 29 touchdowns back from last year's 9-2 season, which included being a co-champion of the CAL.

So as the team prepares for its road trip to Belmont on Friday night (6:00 pm), what are the expectations for a relatively young and inexperienced Wildcat team?

"In the preseason scrimmages, we have been holding some kids out because they have been banged up," said Barry. "But the kids are working hard and I couldn't possibly ask for better attitudes. The kids have been very receptive to the coaches, and now they are just very excited to get the season started, and from there we'll see what happens."

On paper, this is perhaps the youngest and least experience team in over a decade. The Wildcats bring back just a handful of two-way players, or positional starters, and will be tested right away with a much improved Belmont team, a very solid Lexington team, as well as proven Cape Ann League large opponents including the usual three of North Andover, Pentucket and Masconomet, not to mention a potentially dynamic Lawrence team.

"The big things for us is consistency," said Barry. "We need more of it. There have been times where we have shown flashes of being pretty good, and there have been times when we haven't been consistent. Overall right now we have the extra week to practice, but the kids have had great attitudes and are just really excited about Friday's game and getting the season started."

Steve Stewart, Anthony Nihan, Mike Manganelli and Chris Thibault are this year's four captains.

Stewart (5-11, 175) will be the team's starting quarterback, and will also be one of the defensive cornerbacks. He probably has the most experience on the team and is arguably the best athlete on the team. As a sophomore he saw time as a quarterback when then starter Kyle Moon got injured. That season, Stewart completed 25-of-51 passes for 386 yards with three touchdowns and three interceptions. He also rushed for 68 yards and scored a touchdown. As a junior he was switched to wide receiver/slot back as Moon was completely healthy and took over the full-time QB position. Stewart rushed for 108 yards and also caught six passes for 166 yards with two touchdowns. Now this year, Stewart, a lefty, will be back behind center.

"Stew is throwing the ball well through the pre-season," said Barry. "And the receivers are doing alright. Again, and I'll

Wildcats open with Belmont this Friday night

By JAMIE POTE

This Friday will mark the first of four non-league games for the Wilmington High School varsity football team, as it will square off against Belmont.

As reported by the Town Crier over the past year, the Cape Ann League has changed up its schedule and league format. The Wildcats remain in the large school conference with North Andover, Pentucket, Masconomet, Lawrence and Triton. Besides facing those four teams, Wilmington will play two cross-over games with small school teams Lynnfield and Hamilton-Wenham, but will no longer face Amesbury, Newburyport and Ipswich.

Besides the five games against the large school teams, and two against the smaller schools, the 'Cats will start the season out with three non-league contests with Belmont and Lexington out of the Middlesex League, then Shawsheen Tech, before facing Tewksbury on Thanksgiving Day morning to round out the 11-game schedule.

"We have a five game league schedule which is different, but all five teams are very tough," said first-year head coach Mike Barry. "Masconomet, North Andover and Pentucket are always strong every year. Triton just beat Newburyport this weekend and Newburyport is supposed to be a real good team. And Lawrence I'm told by all of the coaches are a team that no one wants to play. They return everyone from last year and they have a lot of talent. So I think it's going to be extremely competitive."

After this year the schedule will change again, as Lawrence is supposed to be re-joining the Merrimack Valley Conference, while who knows if Lynnfield and Hamilton-Wenham will continue to play Wilmington, since the schools are not required as Division 2 foes. Until that's decided, Barry likes his non-league schedule starting with Belmont.

"They have a good quarterback and some solid receivers," said Barry. "It seems like they do a real nice job running to the ball defensively. They get off their blocks very well. Last year they had all new players but I think they are coming around."

After Friday's opener, will come a road trip to Lexington, against a team that's usually among the top in the very competitive Middlesex League. Bill Tighe, who is returning for his 33rd year as head coach, coaches the Minutemen.

In week three, the most intriguing match-up comes when the Wildcats face Shawsheen Tech, in what's believed to be the first meeting of the two schools.

"I think that's going to become a tremendous rivalry game," said Barry. "I think it's great the two schools are going to play and I think it's just going to become one of the great rivalries we have."

This is Barry's first year as head coach, after serving the previous 12 as an assistant at WHS. Almost the entire coaching staff returns with several small changes. Joe Cavanaugh (defensive backs/running backs), Matt Minghella (secondary/receivers), Rich DeLucia (ends) and Steve O'Neill all return as varsity assistants. Dave Sundberg, who has served as the Freshmen Girls Basketball coach the past three years, has been added to the varsity staff and will be the offensive and defensive line coach. Carl Stauffer returns as a freshmen coach and he'll be joined by newcomer Taylor Wyre.

The Wilmington High School varsity football team will open its 2008 season on the road this Friday night against Belmont. Nihan returns as the silent leader

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

When describing Anthony Nihan as a player, first-year head football coach Mike Barry said that he's a "lunch pale" kind of a kid. He went on to say that he is more of a quiet leader. So while Nihan won't be expected to make the halftime speeches like Julius Campbell from "Remember the Titans", he'll be more like Campbell's teammate, Gerry Bertier, tackling everything in sight, and leading the team's defense.

Nihan enters this football season as one of the more experienced players on a very young football roster. The 5-foot-9, 200-pound senior captain, will be shifting gears on offense as the team's new fullback, but really is known for his defensive prowess, taking on all ball carriers as a linebacker.

"Anthony is a tough, typical Wilmington kid," said Barry. "He'll do anything you ask. If I told him today he was playing center, he would do it. He has such a positive attitude. He works hard and he displays good leadership. He's not the rah-rah type. He's more of a lunch pale kid. He works hard and he never takes a play off. He always wants to get better. He's a reason why you love to coach in Wilmington - it's kids like him."

Last year Nihan switched between defensive end and linebacker. He had several strong games, including a big interception in the Thanksgiving game against Tewksbury. But now he's a full-time linebacker, full-time leader on defense and one of the three captains on a very young and inexperienced team, which will be looking to make it 13 straight winning seasons in the Cape Ann League.

"I think we'll be just as competitive as we have in the past," said Nihan. "We have a lot of good role players, and I think we're going to be good enough to compete for the league championship again."

He firmly believes that because he said the defensive group surrounding him on the gridiron, is very balanced.

"I think we look pretty good, especially our defense looks real strong," he said. "We have a bunch of good juniors who have come up. Guys like John Moriarty are looking real good. I think our strength is defense. Our interior defense is really strong and I think that will be a big reason why we will win games."

Barry was quick to point out that having Nihan as part of the defensive eleven already makes his Wildcat team one to reckon with.

"Anthony has the ability to make a lot of plays defensively," said Barry. "Last year he went from linebacker to defensive end, but right now we have more of a need at linebacker so he's making the switch back. Anthony's just an all-around good kid - he's a Wilmington kid. He's tough, he's hard-nosed and he loves the game. He's always positive and he certainly has the respect from the rest of the kids on the team."

Nihan said there's a big adjustment between defensive end and linebacker, but he has had a long history of playing in the middle of the field.

"I've played linebacker since Pop Warner. And I've always loved it" he said, as ends coach Rich DeLucia overheard the answer and started to give Nihan a hard time. "But defensive end is a great position, too. But I'll play anywhere the coaches ask me to play. Defensive end you have to learn to be patient. Linebacker is a very aggressive position."

While Nihan will look to improve on his strength, his tackling, his reads and his aggression on defense, he realizes that he'll have a tough task with his new offensive position of fullback. But he added that he learned a lot from Corey Groves, who was spectacular in that role last year blocking for Ernie Mello, who rushed for 29 touchdowns.

"I definitely think Corey did a great job and he is one of the toughest kids I've ever watched play," said Nihan. "I'm hoping I can do what he did, and it's past down to me."

Nihan won't be blocking for Mello. Instead he has a brand new core of running backs, with Evan Butters, Kevin Moriarty and Dan McKinnon, the latter two with no varsity experience, and the former having just a handful of carries during mop up time last season.

"Butters is going to be really good and Kevin is just a sophomore, but he runs really hard," said Nihan.

Nihan will get his share of carries and catches out of the backfield, but Barry really needs a full-time guy in there who will help create holes for the inexperienced backfield.

"Offensively, Anthony will be a typical fullback," said Barry. "He's run the ball here and there and get some catches, but he'll be there to block."

On Friday, Nihan will be blocking on offense and tackling on defense. For him, Friday at 6:00 pm, can't come quick enough.

"I'm already all jacked up for Friday," he said. "I've been that way for several weeks now. I just can't wait for it, when the games are real."

WHS Volleyball Preview

Wildcats

gearing up for better results

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High volleyball team suffered through a long season last year, posting a 2-18 record on the year as many players saw their first ever varsity action.

While wins were in short supply last season, one very valuable aspect to the season was the experience gained by many players. Coach Mark Staffier, entering his 10th season at the helm of the Wildcats is hoping to see some of that experience come into play this season as the Wildcats hope to add to the win column.

"The experience will be helpful. Hopefully we can learn from the mistakes we made last year now that the girls have had the experience of going through a varsity season," Staffier said. "There are no excuses for being a young team. We know what to expect."

While the players have gained some experience, Staffier is at the same time trying to simplify things for his players in hopes of allowing them to be more consistent.

"We have changed some things. We are going with a more simple offense," Staffier said. "We are going with a 5-1 set up instead of a 6-2, with just one setter. We are trying to work on getting the basics down and trying to be consistent on a match to match basis."

Two players who will be counted on most heavily for their consistency will be senior captains Kristen Browne and Theresa McMahon. Browne, a middle hitter and McMahon, an outside hitter will be counted on to lead the team both on and off the court.

"Both of them have been in the system for four years and Kristen was a captain last year," Staffier said. "They both know what to expect from me and from the rest of the teams in the league this season."

Junior setter Amanda Hollenbeck will also return to the lineup and Staffier is excited to see her contributions this season.

"Amanda is one of those players who just continues to improve," Staffier said. "She improved last year and she has already shown improvement this season. Coming back this year she has had a full workload as our only setter and she has done a great job."

Senior Angela Maglione, who was one of the team's setters

last season will move to an outside hitter position this year in the Wildcats new offense and Staffier is confident she can adapt to her new role.

"We will use her as a hitter and also as our backup setter. She has done well in the pre season," Staffier said. "She has always had the capability to be a hitter, but we needed a second setter and she did well with that. She has made a nice transition."

Senior Shannon Jones will be another outside hitter for the Wildcats.

"She has definitely improved on her hitting from last season," Staffier said. "With her improvement, I would like to use her up front more than I did last year."

A pair of defensive specialists will also return to the fold for the Wildcats with seniors LeeJoan Villafuerte and Allison Yee will be counted on to back-bone the Wilmington defense.

"Both of them saw some good playing time last year for us on the back row," Staffier said. "They've got the best passing skills on the team for returning serves and for digging."

Juniors Amy Fahey, Stephanie Kellie and Charissa Tilton are also returning to the Wildcats in their roles as hitters.

Newcomers for the Wildcats will be junior Jill Fudge, sophomore Katie Aoki and sophomore Amanda Keane.

While Staffier is looking forward to seeing how the new offense clicks for the Wildcats, he still feels the team's biggest strength lies in their ability to defend.

"We are lacking a little but in height, but we work hard on defense and we can make up for our lack of height," Staffier said. "Our defensive play and our ability to hustle to get to every ball will be the key to our season."

Staffier cites Lynnfield and North Reading as the top teams in the Cape Ann League, and says that every team in the league will provide stiff competition for his squad. But even with the strong competition, he is looking forward to his team taking a major step this season.

"We are definitely shooting for the tournament," Staffier said. "I don't like to put a number on how many wins I want to get, but that is the goal, to get into the tournament."

Senior co-captain

Browne showing her true colors on the court

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington High senior Kristen Browne knows a lot about being part of a winning team, having been a member of the Wildcats girls basketball team for the past two seasons, including a run to the sectional finals as a sophomore and another successful season including a win in the first round of the tournament last season when she was a starting guard for the Wildcats.

But perhaps Browne's greatest role for Wilmington sports came last season as she captained the Wildcats volleyball team through a trying 2-18 campaign, helping to keep the team focused and working hard throughout the season. Browne returns as a team captain this season for the improved Wildcats.

Wilmington coach Mark Staffier was very impressed with how Browne handled her role as captain last season.

"We could have a person in there who would have had a really tough time dealing with that," Staffier said. "2-18 is a long season for everybody, but she handled it great. And to bring her back this season with her positive attitude is a great asset for us. The girls are listening to what she says."

Browne felt that her teammates willingness to keep putting forth a maximum effort made the season much easier to get through.

"It was kind of tough, but it wasn't like we were not trying," Browne said. "Everybody was putting all of their effort in there, and we did get better as the season went along so that was good to see."

As much as Browne did a great job last year in her role as captain, and as much as she enjoyed leading her teammates through the season, she is looking forward to seeing more positive results this season in terms of wins and losses.

"I definitely feel like we will improve," Browne said. "We have basically the same team as last year so I feel like we will do really well. You can see the improvement already."

If the Wildcats are going to improve, Browne will be one of the key reasons with her play from the middle hitter position. Along with being a team leader, she is one of the Wildcats most skilled players as well.

"She is one of our players who is always ready to accept direction and to apply it immediately," Staffier said. "If I tell her to go do a different spot, she doesn't just take the information, but you see the difference on the next play. She's a very talented player for us."

While Staffier is thrilled to have a player of Browne's caliber on his team, Browne has considered herself equally fortunate to have Staffier as her coach.

WHS Round-Up

Boys and Girls Soccer, Cross Country and Golf teams begin play

By JAMIE POTE
& MIKE IPPOLITO

With 14 minutes left against the No. 3 ranked team in Eastern Mass., the Wilmington High School boys' soccer team had Haverhill against the ropes and ready to knock them out.

But minutes after Jason Pereira's bid for a season opening hat trick, the Hillies responded by scoring three goals in the final 14 minutes to come away with a 4-2 non-league victory held on Monday. "It was a good game," said Wildcat head coach Steve Scanlon. "They are a talented team. When the first pre-season poll came out on Saturday, the (Boston) Globe had Haverhill ranked third (in Eastern Mass.). They are an older team. They have 15 seniors, they have some real size and they have two center-midfielders who are both very talented players. I expected that the kids new to this level would be bothered by their speed and physicality and it did become a factor."

Wilmington took a 1-0 lead just midway through the first half. Jon Spurr and Ryan Kennedy started a nice offensive threat together, sending a through ball to Pereira, who came in and pushed the ball to the low right corner beating the Haverhill keeper.

About ten minutes later, Haverhill got on the board and tied the game up on a defensive breakdown by the 'Cats. The score remained that way until the ten-minute mark of the second half. Pereira was fighting for a loose ball inside the 6' yard box and was taken down. He was awarded a penalty kick and booted in his second goal of the game, again giving the Wildcats a lead.

Shortly after his second goal, Pereira almost put the game away but was robbed on a point blank shot heading to the top right corner on an excellent save by the Haverhill keeper. That save seemed to have given the Hillies a lot of life.

"With about 14 minutes to go in the game, they had another kid who was loosely marked by our defenders," said Scanlon. "There was too much ball watching. The kid did make a real nice play, corraling the ball and he put a beautiful shot on net and we were tied up at two."

Wilmington didn't take a step back and seemed to settle down a little bit.

"I thought at that point we had adjusted to their physical stuff and were playing better," said Scanlon. "But then they got a fluky goal to go ahead. A ball was flicked on and a kid jumped up at the last second and got a head on it and the ball went over (keeper) Marty (Bamberg) and slowly rolled to the corner just inside the pipe. That put them up 3-2 with six minutes to go. But those next two minutes after you score or give up a goal are probably the two most important minutes in a soccer game. It's how you react in those two minutes, which is so vital."

"We ended up putting three forwards up trying to get a last minute goal, but they ended up getting one more."

Scanlon pointed out that Bamberg played very well in the net making eight saves, with several labeled in the first half. He also gave a lot of credit to defenders Colin Wilson, Dylan Reed and Gott Saenchandi.

"Overall I was very pleased with the effort and pleased with how we answered their physical stuff and fought back," said Scanlon. "We went right with them until the end. And all of that is really good stuff. We made some mistakes which were costly, but I think a lot of that had to do with our inexperience and their experience."

Wilmington is now off for the next eight days before going on the road again to face Lynnfield on Tuesday.

Girls Soccer

The Wilmington High School girls' soccer team dropped its season opener on Monday to highly powered Masconomet Regional, 5-1. The Wildcats actually took a 1-0 lead just eight minutes into the game, before the Chieftains rallied back scoring three goals within the next five minutes before cruising the rest of the game.

"Masco is a very strong team with 12 seniors," said Wildcat head coach Sue Hendee. "They have some really good offensive power. Their defense is average and we took advantage of that scoring first, but then they scored three goals right after that. I don't know if they woke up and started being serious after we scored or what. But I do think it was a combination of them taking charge and us making some mistakes. This was a typical first game of the season where they took advantage of us making some mistakes."

The Wildcats lone goal was very pretty starting with Lizz Chin.

"Lizzie took the ball down the right side from midfield," described Hendee. "She made a nice cross. Kaitlyn (Souza) was on the near post, and Brittney McLaughlin was on the far post and she got the ball and hit it home."

Hendee pointed out that defenders Danielle Polcari and Katelyn Hayes played well.

"The defense was under pressure throughout the entire game and I thought those two girls really played well handling it all," said Hendee.

Wilmington will try to grab at least its first win of the season with games against North Andover (Wednesday with results not known as of presstime), Georgetown (Friday on the road) and Lynnfield at home Tuesday night beginning at 6:00 pm.

WHS Golf

The Wilmington High golf team got their season off to a great start last Thursday afternoon against Pentucket Regional with a 146-141 win over their Cape Ann League rivals in the season opener for both teams.

The victory not only avenged a close loss to Pentucket in last year's season opener for the Wildcats, but it also equaled the team's win total from last season, when they finished with an overall league record of 1-10-1.

"It was a good opening day for us," Wilmington coach Steve Lynch said. "Everyone was pretty excited. The kids remembered losing to this team last year and they wanted to start on a better note."

Senior Nick Bouteris got off to the best start of anyone from his number three position, putting up 34 points while shooting a 38 over the nine holes. His day was even more impressive when you consider he started it by shooting an eight on the par 5 first hole.

"He started off as if it was going to be a long day, but he finished up real strong," Lynch said. "It was a big day for him. He had three birdies. He has been playing real well for us and does great in the number three spot."

The Wildcats had six players score over 20 points in the victory, with junior Aubrey Ungvasky posting the second highest total of the day from her number one position with a total of 24 points after shooting a 43.

Senior captain Mike Chiricosta paired with Ungvasky at the number two position and had a great day of his own, shooting a 44 to finish with 23 points.

"Aubrey did a real nice job. She has been real steady in practice, hitting everything right down the middle and she played well for us," Lynch said. "Mike has been real steady as well and with him in the number two slot, we have a real good one two punch." Freshman John Keough, playing in the number eight slot, played like he belonged in a much higher position, shooting a 43 and putting up 23 points. "I put John at number eight because it was his first match and I was not sure what to expect from him and did not want to put too much pressure on him," Lynch said. "But he came through really well. He looks like he is going to be a player for us and it looks like he will be in the lineup for the rest of the season. Other top scorers for the Wildcats were sophomore Andrew Spurr with 22 points and junior Pat Enright with 20. Prior to the match, Lynch had told his team that if each of the eight members scored at least 20 points they would likely win the match. While all eight were not able to score 20, six were and the results were as Lynch predicted.

"We had balanced scoring and that's what we needed," Lynch said. "Any time you can get 24 or 25 points from everybody you will be in contention. We can compete if we score in that range." While it is only one win and there is a long season still ahead of the team, Lynch was pleased for his players to get the first win over with so early in the season. "It was huge for them," Lynch said. "You could see the dejection on their faces last year after the losses, so it was good for them to start off on a good note." The Wildcats were rained out on Tuesday afternoon when they were scheduled to travel to Rockport and will resume their season on Thursday afternoon at home against Amesbury.

Cross Country

Both the Wilmington High School boys and girls cross country teams were defeated by North Andover in last Wednesday's Cape Ann League season opener.

"The weather was terrible and the times were way off," said head coach Tom Bradley. "I thought we had a very good chance with the girls. We beat them (the last two years) but we lost 20-36."

North Andover was led by arguably the best runner in the entire state, Kristen Kasper (niece of former Boston Bruins forward Steve Kasper). The Knights had the second finisher, before Wilmington's Ali Lyman was third overall putting forth a very strong run coming across at 21:45. North Andover then had the next two finishers which gave them the victory.

After Lyman, Syd Russo was sixth overall and second for Wilmington coming in at 22:32. She was followed by Jessica Burke (7th, 22:49), Nikki Sirignano (9th, 23:13), Courtney Collins (11th, 23:41) before Kerri Spry and Cali Pepper rounded out the team's finishers.

Turning to the boys, North Andover came away with a 15-46 victory. The Knights took the first five finishes, before Wilmington junior Tom Valente was sixth overall coming in at 18:19. He was followed by Cole Pepper who came in at 18:36, which was very impressive considering this was his first varsity meet and then Zack Sears (20:21).

Cole Carter (21:33), Sean Keane (21:35), Jeff Kannally and John Weber, closed out the efforts put in by the Wildcat runners.

WHS Field Hockey

The Wildcats were defeated in their first two games of the season, falling to Masconomet, 5-0, and Pentucket, 1-0.

The team's game on Tuesday night scheduled against Newburyport was rained out.

Wilmington will be back in action this week with road trips to North Andover on Thursday and Amesbury on Monday.

Wildcats

gearing up for better results

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High volleyball team suffered through a long season last year, posting a 2-18 record on the year as many players saw their first ever varsity action.

While wins were in short supply last season, one very valuable aspect to the season was the experience gained by many players. Coach Mark Staffier, entering his 10th season at the helm of the Wildcats is hoping to see some of that experience come into play this season as the Wildcats hope to add to the win column.

"The experience will be helpful. Hopefully we can learn from the mistakes we made last year now that the girls have had the experience of going through a varsity season," Staffier said. "There are no excuses for being a young team. We know what to expect."

While the players have gained some experience, Staffier is at the same time trying to simplify things for his players in hopes of allowing them to be more consistent.

"We have changed some things. We are going with a more simple offense," Staffier said. "We are going with a 5-1 set up instead of a 6-2, with just one setter. We are trying to work on getting the basics down and trying to be consistent on a match to match basis."

Two players who will be counted on most heavily for their consistency will be senior captains Kristen Browne and Theresa McMahon. Browne, a middle hitter and McMahon, an outside hitter will be counted on to lead the team both on and off the court.

"Both of them have been in the system for four years and Kristen was a captain last year," Staffier said. "They both know what to expect from me and from the rest of the teams in the league this season."

Junior setter Amanda Hollenbeck will also return to the lineup and Staffier is excited to see her contributions this season.

"Amanda is one of those players who just continues to improve," Staffier said. "She improved last year and she has already shown improvement this season. Coming back this year she has had a full workload as our only setter and she has done a great job."

Senior Angela Maglione, who was one of the team's setters

last season will move to an outside hitter position this year in the Wildcats new offense and Staffier is confident she can adapt to her new role.

"We will use her as a hitter and also as our backup setter. She has done well in the pre season," Staffier said. "She has always had the capability to be a hitter, but we needed a second setter and she did well with that. She has made a nice transition."

Senior Shannon Jones will be another outside hitter for the Wildcats.

"She has definitely improved on her hitting from last season," Staffier said. "With her improvement, I would like to use her up front more than I did last year."

A pair of defensive specialists will also return to the fold for the Wildcats with seniors LeeJoan Villafuerte and Allison Yee will be counted on to back-bone the Wilmington defense.

"Both of them saw some good playing time last year for us on the back row," Staffier said. "They've got the best passing skills on the team for returning serves and for digging."

Juniors Amy Fahey, Stephanie Kellie and Charissa Tilton are also returning to the Wildcats in their roles as hitters.

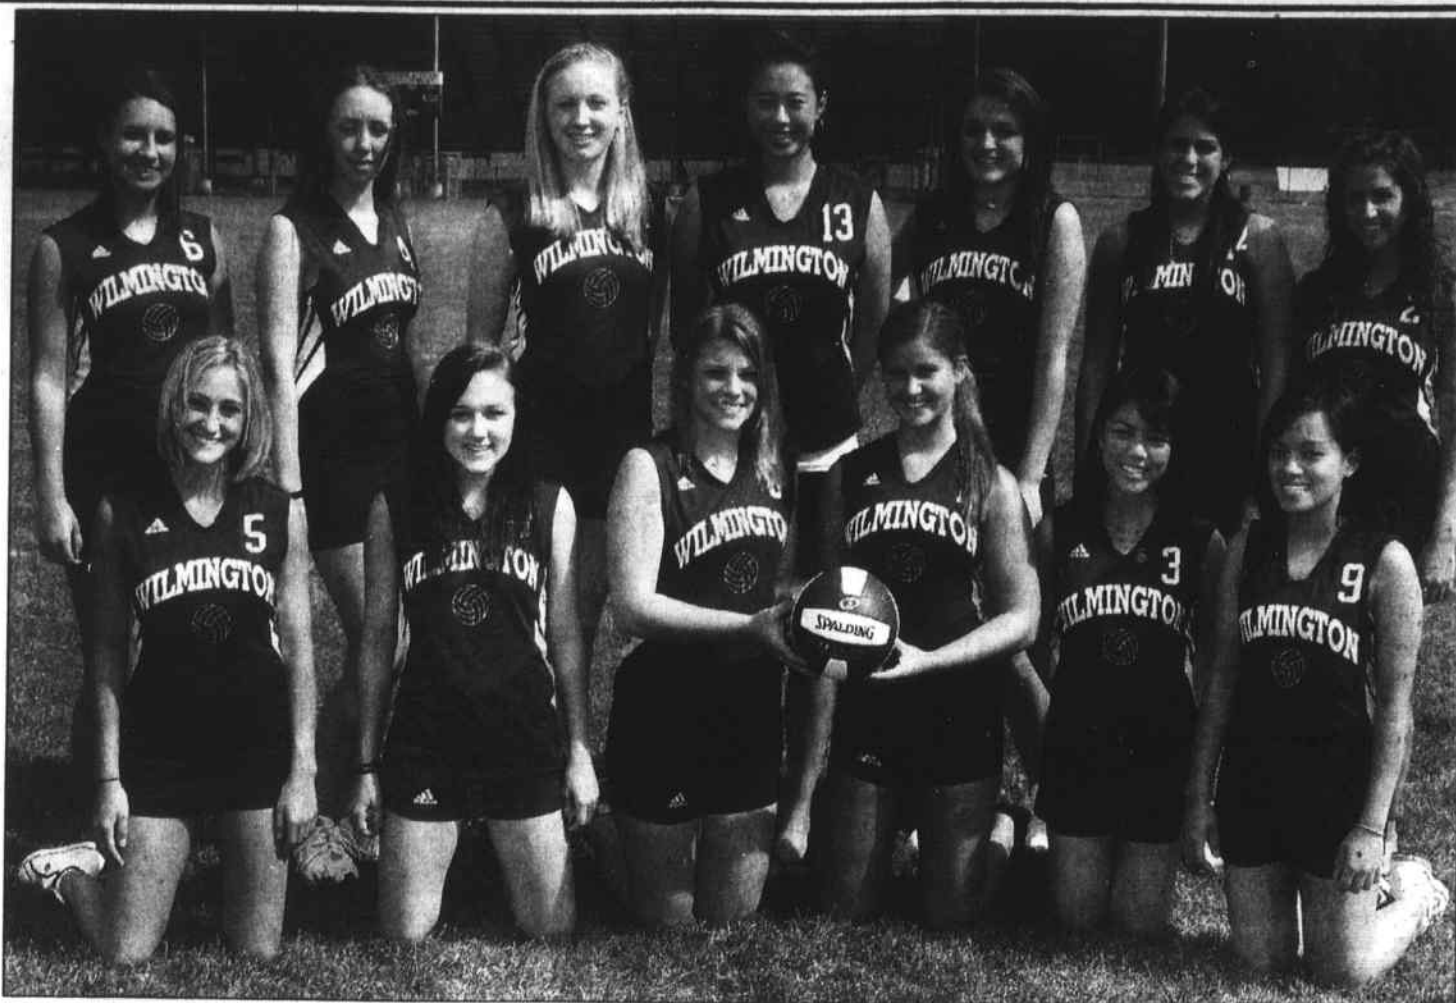

Newcomers for the Wildcats will be junior Jill Fudge, sophomore Katie Aoki and sophomore Amanda Keane.

While Staffier is looking forward to seeing how the new offense clicks for the Wildcats, he still feels the team's biggest strength lies in their ability to defend.

"We are lacking a little but in height, but we work hard on defense and we can make up for our lack of height," Staffier said. "Our defensive play and our ability to hustle to get to every ball will be the key to our season."

Staffier cites Lynnfield and North Reading as the top teams in the Cape Ann League, and says that every team in the league will provide stiff competition for his squad. But even with the strong competition, he is looking forward to his team taking a major step this season.

"We are definitely shooting for the tournament," Staffier said. "I don't like to put a number on how many wins I want to get, but that is the goal, to get into the tournament."

Senior co-captain

Browne showing her true colors on the court

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington High senior Kristen Browne knows a lot about being part of a winning team, having been a member of the Wildcats girls basketball team for the past two seasons, including a run to the sectional finals as a sophomore and another successful season including a win in the first round of the tournament last season when she was a starting guard for the Wildcats.

But perhaps Browne's greatest role for Wilmington sports came last season as she captained the Wildcats volleyball team through a trying 2-18 campaign, helping to keep the team focused and working hard throughout the season. Browne returns as a team captain this season for the improved Wildcats.

Wilmington coach Mark Staffier was very impressed with how Browne handled her role as captain last season.

"We could have a person in there who would have had a really tough time dealing with that," Staffier said. "2-18 is along season for everybody, but she handled it great. And to bring her back this season with her positive attitude is a great asset for us. The girls are listening to what she says."

Browne felt that her teammates willingness to keep putting forth a maximum effort made the season much easier to get through.

"It was kind of tough, but it wasn't like we were not trying," Browne said. "Everybody was putting all of their effort in there, and we did get better as the season went along so that was good to see."

As much as Browne did a great job last year in her role as captain, and as much as she enjoyed leading her teammates through the season, she is looking forward to seeing more positive results this season in terms of wins and losses.

"I definitely feel like we will improve," Browne said. "We have basically the same team as last year so I feel like we will do really well. You can see the improvement already."

If the Wildcats are going to improve, Browne will be one of the key reasons with her play from the middle hitter position. Along with being a team leader, she is one of the Wildcats most skilled players as well.

"She is one of our players who is always ready to accept direction and to apply it immediately," Staffier said. "If I tell her to go do a different spot, she doesn't just take the information, but you see the difference on the next play. She's a very talented player for us."

While Staffier is thrilled to have a player of Browne's caliber on his team, Browne has considered herself equally fortunate to have Staffier as her coach.

"The weather was terrible and the times were way off," said head coach Tom Bradley. "I thought we had a very good chance with the girls. We beat them (the last two years) but we lost 20-36."

North Andover was led by arguably the best runner in the entire state, Kristen Kasper (niece of former Boston Bruins forward Steve Kasper). The Knights had the second finisher, before Wilmington's Ali Lyman was third overall putting forth a very strong run coming across at 21:45. North Andover then had the next two finishers which gave them the victory.

After Lyman, Syd Russo was sixth overall and second for Wilmington coming in at 22:32. She was followed by Jessica Burke (7th, 22:49), Nikki Sirignano (9th, 23:13), Courtney Collins (11th, 23:41) before Kerri Spry and Cali Pepper rounded out the team's finishers.

Turning to the boys, North Andover came away with a 15-46 victory. The Knights took the first five finishes, before Wilmington junior Tom Valente was sixth overall coming in at 18:19. He was followed by Cole Pepper who came in at 18:36, which was very impressive considering this was his first varsity meet and then Zack Sears (20:21).

Cole Carter (21:33), Sean Keane (21:35), Jeff Kannally and John Weber, closed out the efforts put in by the Wildcat runners.

WHS Field Hockey

The Wildcats were defeated in their first two games of the season, falling to Masconomet, 5-0, and Pentucket, 1-0.

The team's game on Tuesday night scheduled against Newburyport was rained out.

Wilmington will be back in action this week with road trips to North Andover on Thursday and Amesbury on Monday.

Burns hangs on for 18 hours

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

Recently, Bank of America and the New England Patriots held a contest for fans to win season tickets, called "Now Prove It!" Nine fans were selected to take part in a contest where they had to continuously keep their hands on a large inflatable Pat's jersey, beginning at 10 a.m. in the morning. They got a break every half-hour. Chris Burns, 28, of Wilmington took part and finished in fourth place, dropping out at 3:30 a.m.

Burns was selected to the contest after calling the WFXN radio station and answering one of the Patriot's trivia question correctly. The contest started at 10 a.m., and the contestants had to stand with at least hand toughing the huge inflatable Bank of America shirt.

There were always at least two judges watching, and there were video cameras as well. One contestant actually got knocked out after the judges watched the replay on the video camera. The last one standing won two tickets to every Patriot's home game this season.

Burns said that holding the jersey was not that difficult for him because he was holding the jersey very tightly.

"Holding onto the jersey wasn't too hard," said Burns. "I just tried to grip it so if I started to let go it would remind me."

When the time got to me almost midnight, Burns said he was thinking about dropping out but he stayed after one contestant got knocked out which kept Burns' chances of winning the season tickets alive.

"I was starting to feel like I may not want to go any longer around 11 p.m. but shortly after the judges came back with the instant replay footage of one of the other contestants taking his hand off," said Burns. "They disqualified him and I think everyone in the contest got a big boost from that."

Burns also added that the contest did not get to be boring until late in the night as he and the other contestants conversed about sports for the majority of the time.

"It didn't get too boring until around 11 p.m. when the streets were starting to get empty," said Burns. "One contestant brought a radio so WBCN was playing, and I just sang along to the songs and danced in place a bit. Most of the other guys were pretty friendly, and we spent lots of time talking sports amongst each other and the judges."

Burns added that he has been a Patriot's all his life, so keeping one hand on the inflatable jersey for long and consecutive hours was something he was willing to sacrifice for the season tickets.

"I have been a fan for as long as I could remember, but I think I caught the bug the very first time I went to see them play in person," said Burns. "It was early in the 2001 season, and Drew Bledsoe had just been injured and a friend of mine who had season tickets couldn't make the game so he offered me his seats. The Pats beat up on the Colts and I was hooked. Since then I have made it to at least one or two home games each season as well as a few road games here and there."

At the contest Burns was lucky enough to meet Patriot's legend Andre Tippett who was on hand for the festivities.

"It was really cool to meet him," said Burns. "He wasn't as big as I thought he would be but the Super Bowl ring he had on from 2004 was huge."

Throughout the very long day, Burns said he had many relatives and family drop by.

"A few friends stopped by during the day," said Burns. "My brother Doug came by with a Dunkin's coffee when he got out of work and my fiancée, Mara, dropped by with a sandwich, some candies and a pair of sweat pants around 8 p.m. My fiancée also told me prior to the contest to 'do it for our wedding,' but I'm still not sure what she meant by that. Overall, it was so much more fun to have people to talk to."

When it got to be a half hour past three in the morning, Burns and the rest of the participants dropped out of the contest and agreed to split up the tickets.

"My legs were a little tired so that's why I suggested to split up the tickets with the remaining contestants," said Burns. "I was a little surprised that they all agreed to a split. Overall I am very happy with how things worked out, as I got four club level tickets for when the Pats play the Jets on November 13th. I could have dropped out and taken two tickets to play Denver on the Monday night game, but The Jets game is the one game I really wanted to be at."

After the contest, Burns, who went to bed at midnight prior to arriving at 10 a.m. for the start of the contest, arrived home at 5 a.m. before waking up two hours later to go to work. Overall, Burns said participating in the contest for as long as he did was definitely worth it.

"I enjoyed meeting to other guys, and they were lots of fun to hang out with for 18 hours," said Burns.

Wilmington resident Chris Burns held on to the large Patriots' inflatable jersey trying to win a contest to get season tickets for the three-time champions. Burns lasted 18 hours in the contest, finishing in fourth place. (courtesy photo).

Browne showing her true colors on the volleyball court

"He's been an awesome coach," Browne said. "He is always giving us advice and working with us to get better. He definitely always puts the team first."

Browne's talents may come as a bit of a surprise, considering she did not take up volleyball until here freshman year of high school. She had played basketball and soccer growing up, but switched to volleyball when she got to Wilmington High. It is a decision she has never regretted.

"I had played soccer up until eighth grade, but I gave it up for volleyball and I just had so much fun with it that I stuck with it," Browne said. "I am glad I picked it because I have really enjoyed it."

One of the things that Browne has enjoyed most during her stay at Wilmington High has been her relationships with her teammates, an aspect which she tried to build on as captain last year and will continue to do this year.

"We all stayed positive through the whole year so it was really good to be together," Browne said. "We have a lot of team dinners before our games and during the games we are always cheering each other on even when we are losing."

While Browne will have a big responsibility as a captain for the Wildcats, she will not have to do the job alone, as she will be joined by senior co-captain

Theresa McMahon. Browne feels that it is combination that will work very well for the Wildcats.

"Theresa is a very good captain," McMahon said. "We get along really well, and we are both pretty much at the same level since we both started last season and are coming back so we are both in the same boat."

Staffier, for his part, is very pleased to have his team led by the duo.

"Both of them have been in the system for four years and Kristen was a captain last year," Staffier said. "They both know what to expect from me and from the rest of the teams in the league this season."

Wilmington Pop Warner C team

Defense the key for shut out victory

In their season debut against the Waltham Devil Dogs, the Wilmington Pop Warner C Football Team held their opponent scoreless and came away with a decisive victory, 24-0.

Right from the opening kickoff, Wilmington's defense showed Waltham what they were up against. The Wildcat defensive line of Cody Wile, Michael Shedd, Robert Yates and John Irizarry were gang tackling, allowing only short gains and eventually forcing Waltham into punt situations.

The Wildcat offense exploded in the second quarter scoring 24 unanswered points. On Wilmington's first possession of the period, Quarterback Ryan Carroccino methodically moved his team down the field on six successive running plays.

The success of the running game was primarily due to outstanding play from the Wildcat's offensive line.

The blocking of Nick Cimaglia, Joe Scurto and Peter

Daley on the right side, and Andrew Lesperance, Ryan Adams and Nathan Vince on the left side with Connor Bennett at center gave the Wildcat runningbacks plenty of room to work.

The drive culminated with Shaun Hiltz barreling up the middle for the score from the 3-yard line. James O'Regan kicked a successful two point conversion giving Wilmington an 8-0 advantage.

On Waltham's next possession, the Devil Dog's offense attempted a long pass but James O'Regan intercepted it, allowing Carroccino and the Wildcat offense to return to the field. On this drive, Hiltz broke free for a 45-yard run and had the Wildcat offense knocking at the door once again. Matt Penney burst up the middle for the 3-yard score behind the solid blocking of Connor Bennett and Robert Connors. O'Regan kicked the two-point conversion bringing the score to 16-0.

Waltham's offense returned to the field only to be stymied by the Wildcat defense once again. Dylan Masiello, Robert Fullerton and Zach Toto were relentless in their pursuit of the Waltham ballcarriers.

Defensive end Peter Daley made a tackle 15 yards behind the line of scrimmage forcing another Waltham punt. Wilmington's Alec Dell'Anno fielded the punt and ran the ball back 25 yards to give Wilmington excellent field position for another scoring attempt.

This time Carroccino moved the Wildcats to the end zone in 3 plays: an 8-yard run off tackle by Hiltz; a 25 yard pass to O'Regan; and then Penney banged it up the middle from Waltham's 2-yard line for 6 points. O'Regan kicked the two point conversion making it 24-0 at halftime.

In the second half, the Wildcat offense controlled the tempo of the game. Running backs Johnny Reynolds and Antonio Larffarello had some nice short yardage runs that helped keep the ball in the Wildcat's possession. Michael Daly and Patrick Finn made some critical blocks to open holes for Reynolds and Larffarello.

David Woods turned in an excellent performance at offensive guard in his first game.

Wilmington's defense remained solid all game and did not allow a score. Andrew Vellucci and Michael Amato stuffed all Waltham advances at the line of scrimmage. Michael Russo made some nice open field tackles from his defensive end position.

Brian Neal, Andrew Murray and John Roberts, all on the physically unable to play list, gave great support to the team from the sidelines.

USA vs. England

Top-Notch play kept people watching this one. Excellent offensive plays by Erin Riel and Emma Griffin applied heavy pressure causing the England to back pedal.

Defensive positioning by Chloe LeBlanc and Rebecca Melo fended off any threat that came through making it tough for England. Prachi Jhavar and Lea Cooney also played a great game in net keeping the game in hand.

The England offensive pressure was relentless with Rose Cuozzo, Maeve Kilbride applying it with utter determination. Outstanding defense by Shannon Horgan, Tori Burr, Jade Vaughn was a sight to see. While scoring by Francesca Choi, Taryn Surprenant, Rachel Stark had the crowd on the edge of their seats.

Brazil vs. France

A true World Cup Performance by the Brazil made for an exciting game. Outstanding plays by Josselyn Siegel and Vanessa Vandemark coupled with a strong defensive stand by Rebecca Gullotto and Krista Brown made for an all around first class game. Lauren Field (2) scored putting Brazil on the board. Solid goaltending by Laura Kanihan and Joslyn DeFeo to keep their team alive also added to the effort.

Not to be out done, France Jacqueline Champoux, Olivia Cigna were all over the field with great scoring plays by Kalin Connelly, Sophie Consorti. The defense could only be classified as rock solid with great plays by Jennifer Tague, Natalie Medros, Zoe Marzi.

Boys Grade 3/4

Ireland vs. Brazil

Ireland showed up for this game with a powerful offensive force led by Matthew Kahlman and resulting in goals from Cameron Saragosta, Vibhav Bhat, Matthew Kahlman. Adam Coucette complimented this with great defense. Alec Bonaccorsi, Michael LeBlanc played goal with tiger like quickness play after play keeping the Ireland in this game.

Proving they were World Cup Competitors as well, Brazil led by the offensive power of Jonas Fiore, Jacob LeBlanc got things rolling, while goals by Jason Donahue got Brazil on the board. A solid defensive effort by Carl Beatrice, Kyle Bacon held up the defense while the impenetrable tandem of Stephen Cardarelli, Camden Connor, Jacob Sultan showed World Cup ability in net.

say it 100 times this year, we're just looking for consistency. And Stew is doing fine - he's going through the normal beginning of the season stuff."

Manganelli (5-11, 175) will be Stewart's top target as one of the wide receivers. As a sophomore, Manganelli caught three passes for 66 yards and as a junior he had seven catches for 133 yards, giving him a two-year total of 10 catches for 199 yards. As for the other wide out spot, Ryan Searls (5-10, 165), Scott Bonica (5-10, 165) and Frank Sorrentino (5-7, 155) are all fighting it out. None of the three players have caught a varsity pass heading into this season.

Lining up behind Stewart, will be Nihan as the fullback, with a combination of Evan Butters (5-10, 160), Kevin Moriarty (5-10, 160) and Dan MacKinnon (6-1, 180) as the running backs. Butters and Nihan combined for nine carries last year and a score, while the other two are also new to the varsity.

"We're not going to replace Ernie (Mello) will just one guy," said Barry. "Or at least one guy right now. We're going to need to be balanced from the fullbacks to the tailbacks to the quarterback. We're hoping to be balanced (between throwing and running the ball). We're hoping to be 50-50, but sometimes games take on their own identities. But the plan as of right now, is to do both equally."

On the offensive line will be John Moriarty (6-1, 215) and Alex Leiskau (6-0, 200) as the two tackles, Dillan Haliday (5-10, 180) and Thibault (5-11, 185) as the guards, with Dennis Gindras (5-10, 210) at center, and either Danny Cushing (6-1, 215) or Nick Russo (6-0, 200) as the end.

"The (offensive) line is young but up and coming," said Barry. "They have all been very good with their assignments. These guys have been real good typical Wilmington kids. They know they don't get the ball, they don't complain and they just go out there and play hard."

Defensively, it's almost the group that line up on the offensive side. Gingras will be the nose guard with John Moriarty and Cushing are the tackles, with Russo and Thibault as ends. Nihan and Eric Lunt (5-11, 175) are the linebackers, with Butters (free) and Manganelli (strong) safeties, and the cornerbacks are Searls and Stewart.

"Defensively we are replacing two tackles, two linebackers and two defensive backs," said Barry. "So yeah we're kind of young. Searls shows a lot of promise, and Butters started the last three games last year so he brings back some experience. We're going to continue the 5-0 defense (scheme), like we had with Bob (Almeida), but we'll tweak a few things a bit. It's the same philosophy as before: we want to put kids in the right spots so they can make plays."

Chris Cazeau (6-1, 225) and Dan Malonson (5-10, 185) are out injured, but are both two-way players. Cazeau has been out with a concussion, and when healthy will be an offensive and defensive tackle. And Molonson is the team's most experience lineman as a guard and a linebacker, but has been out with an ankle injury, and his timetable for a return isn't known.

Wilmington opens the season on Friday with a 6:00 pm kickoff against Belmont. The Wildcats are 2-0 since facing the Marauders, including last year's 34-6 home opening victory. Barry said despite the youth, and the different schedule, not much has or should change around this program.

"Things have gone great so far," said Barry. "The assistant coaches are really into it and all of the kids have been great. I know I can't wait to get started and I know the kids are dying to get the season going. We have the same goals as we have always had, and we're going to keep the expectations high. Like some of the kids have said, we're not coming out here to be a bad football team. We're coming out to be a good football team and we're looking forward to Friday's game."

Rams football team wins season opener

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Heading into last Saturday's non-league matchup with Tri-County at Franklin High School, perhaps the biggest question for the Shawsheen Tech football team was how would so many young players respond to their first varsity experience.

The answer, as it turned out, was quite well, thank you very much.

Fielding a team with only three returning starters the Rams did not let that stand in their way as they opened the season with an impressive 13-7 victory over their much more experienced foes, behind 182 rushing yards from junior running back Cory Foss.

Shawsheen coach Al Costabile was thrilled to see his team come away with a win in what was the first varsity game for many of his players.

"The kids did a real good job. They did not make a lot of mental mistakes," Costabile said. "It was a real clean game for a team without a lot of varsity experience, and it came against a very good, very stubborn opponent. And they were a senior laden team as well."

The Rams took a 6-0 lead into halftime and extended it to 13-0 before Tri-County responded with a score late in the fourth quarter. Tri-County had a potential game tying drive thwarted by an interception deep in Rams territory with just under two minutes left in the game.

Foss got the Rams on the board first late in the first half, capping off a five play, 50 yard drive with a three yard touchdown run with 2:51 left in the half. Foss had the big play on the drive with a 42 yard run on a third and one play. The Rams missed the extra point, but still held a 6-0 lead as they went to the break.

The drive was just a small part of a great day for Foss, who had some very good games last season in spot starts and seems intent on making the most of his new starting role this season.

"Foss had himself a very good game," Costabile said. "The line game him some nice room to run at times but he also had some small openings that he turned into big plays. And Tri-County tackled very well. He earned everything he got."

While getting the first score

The Shawsheen Tech Football team is represented by many Wilmington residents including: Standing from left: Derek Steen, Ryan Hunt, Bill Reynolds, Andrew Companschi, Paul Visconti, Dillon Biase, Jaycee Humes and Mike Mastropietro. was key to the Rams success, they did not stop there, adding to their lead with a one yard sneak by quarterback Shaun Miller with 2:20 left in the third quarter. It was the longest scoring drive of the game for the Rams, covering 59 yards on six plays.

Senior fullback Jason Baker of Wilmington had the big play on the drive with a 23 burst up the middle, and Nick Danas added the extra point to make it 13-0.

"Scoring late in the first half was huge, but it was huge to get the second one too," Costabile said. "When we finally got the first touchdown it was a great relief because they were all pumped for their first game, but the second one was even bigger because it made them come out of their game plan more than they wanted to."

Tri-County got on the board with 4:49 left in the game to pull within 13-7, and had a chance for the tying or go ahead score a couple of minutes later, but Miller, who played a very efficient game in his first start at quarterback, capped off a great day with an interception from his safety position at the Shawsheen 11 yard line.

"Shaun had a great all around game. He did a great job directing the offense and had a great game on defense with eight tackles," Costabile said. "On the interception, he read the play very well and caught the ball gong toward the goal line almost as if he was the intended receiver. I think his experience as a receiver last year really helped him on that play."

The Shawsheen defense in general played very well, nearly holding Tri-County scoreless, with their only score coming on a fourth and goal play inside the one yard line after they had a first and goal at the two, but were held by the Rams for the first three plays.

Sophomore tackle Ethan Culwell (5 tackles and a fumble recovery) and junior defensive end Andrew Companschi of Wilmington (four tackles and a fumble recover) both played very well for the Rams.

"They both played great games. It was huge for us to win the turnover battle and they made some big plays for us," Costabile said. "Companschi had a very good game. There were a few plays where he did not get credit for a tackle, but he created the play by standing his ground and turning the play in so somebody else could make the play."

The Rams next game will be against another non-league rival when they travel to Arlington High School on Saturday night at 6:30 to take on Arlington Catholic.

Shawsheen Tech Girls Soccer Preview

Lady Rams hoping for another magical ride

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech girls soccer team made history last season, winning the program's first ever State Vocational Championship, as part of an overall season record of 15-3-3, which also saw them finish second in the Commonwealth Athletic Conference Lower Division.

Going into last season, coach Doug Michaud knew his team, which was stocked with seven seniors, would be a force to be reckoned with. This year, of course, the Lady Rams will enter the season minus those seven seniors, which could certainly pose a problem, but Michaud says that he his team has seen an influx of new talent this year and his hoping his team does not miss a beat.

"I was really worried losing seven kids who were really the heart of the team, but we had a stroke of luck this year in that we had 23 new girls come out for the team and some of them are very good," Michaud said. "It's a really strong group and they will be very good."

While the new players are certainly going to big contributors for Shawsheen, the biggest reasons for the optimism surrounding the team are the core of returning players, many of whom were key contributors to the team's success last season. Two of the best returnees for the Lady Rams will be a pair of forwards, as junior Jenn Carroll of Wilmington and senior Heather Masse are both coming off outstanding seasons last year.

Carroll led the team with 32 points last season and Masse was right behind her with 30. Both will be counted on for great production once again this season.

"I am really excited for Jenn this season," Michaud said. "She is a great scorer to begin with and we've got some new people on defense who really see the field well and know how to feed her the ball. It will be a different look for her and I think she will do really well."

"Heather will definitely once again be a talented player for us. We will be looking to her as a leader as well as for her scoring."

The Lady Rams will also benefit from the return of one of their best players from two years ago. Junior forward Jenna Zechner led the team in scoring as a freshman two years ago before missing all of last season with an injury. She returns this season and Michaud is looking forward to seeing her production with Carroll and Masse.

"Jenna had a lot to do with the team's success when she was a freshman. She kind of made the rest of the team step up their level of play," Michaud said. "Putting Jenna up front with Jenn and Heather will be very exciting."

One big loss the Lady Rams did suffer was that of goalie Kimmy Stockton, who graduated after a brilliant four year career guarding the Shawsheen net. It will be very difficult to replace the All-League net minder, but Michaud feels like his team is very fortunate to have two very capable players in her place in senior Stefanie Warnick of Wilmington and sophomore Alyssa Marucci of Tewksbury.

"She had been a goalie, but we had her as a stopper for us. She will move into the goal this year for us and she looks ready," Michaud said. "She has been working out with some college teams this spring. I was very concerned about replacing Kimmy, but after seeing Stefanie play, I feel much better."

Marucci has also helped ease Michaud's mind.

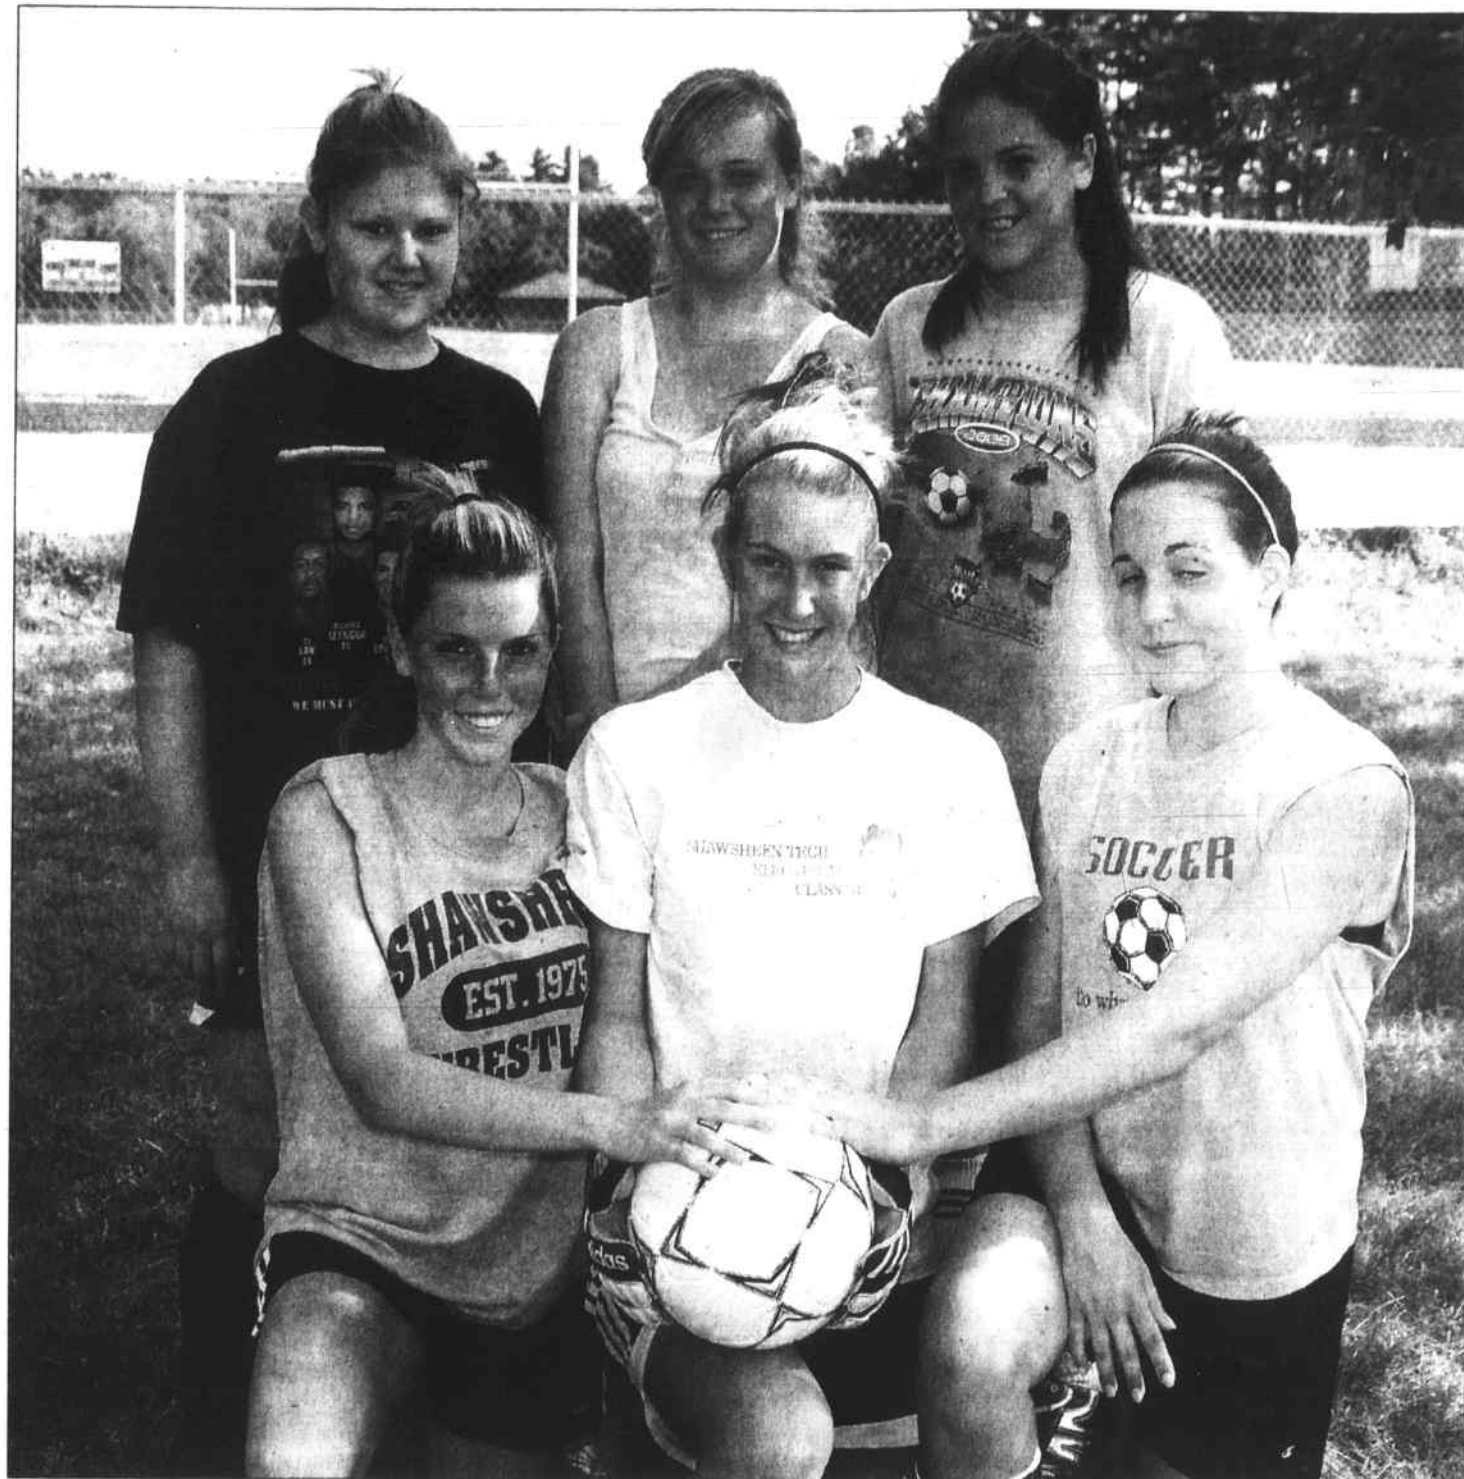

"I think she must have gone to some goalie camps in the off season," Michaud said. "She looks great out there and she will get some playing time for us."

Senior midfielder Janel Madore of Tewksbury will be another key returnee for the Lady Rams.

"Janel has played very well for us on defense," Michaud said. "She hustles really hard and it is very tough to get by her. She also had three or four goals for us last year from the defense position."

While the Lady Rams will once again be looking for post season success in both the voke tournament as well as the state tournament, they would also like to make a run at the regular season title in the CAC. Michaud knows they must first get past last season's champions, Greater Lowell.

"We fought hard with Greater Lowell last year and split with them in the regular season before beating them in the voke tournament," Michaud said. "They will be good again. And the girls have said that Northeast is getting better every year. We had some tough games with them last year."

Have won three straight league titles

Rams Golf team going for number four

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech golf team has established a standard of excellence over the past few seasons that would be hard for any team to match, winning three straight Commonwealth Athletic Conference titles and going undefeated in the league the past two seasons, including last year's 13-0 overall record, which included a perfect mark within the loop.

It has been a great run for the Rams and coach Tom Struthers, who has rarely tasted defeat in his three years as coach of the team. This year's team, however, will have a much different look than those teams of the past, with several new faces joining the squad as the Rams lost several players to graduation including two-time CAC Player of the Year Brandon Porter.

"We are a very young team and we are very inexperienced," Struthers said. "I have been blessed for my first three years as coach here with players who loved golf. I am trying to establish that with this new group of players."

Despite the many losses to graduation, the Rams will return some key players to the fold this season, led by senior Ryan Strazzere and junior Brett Fredrickson. Both players made big contributions to the Rams success last season and Struthers is hoping for them to take the next step this season.

"Brett played in the number four position for us last season and we are expecting a lot from him this year," Struthers said. "He has a lot more weight on his shoulders this year, so we will see how he reacts to that."

"Ryan has done very well for us in practice so far and he shows a lot of potential," Struthers added. "He just needs to develop a little more consistency and he can have a very good season for us."

Other returnees for the Rams will be senior Corey Johanson and sophomore Dan Jacobs, while new players for the Rams will be junior Nick Sbracia, sophomore Corey Gendreau of Wilmington, sophomore Dennis Smalley, sophomore Robert Cameron of Wilmington as well as a very strong freshman class.

The Rams freshmen are Chris Deacetis of Tewksbury, Spencer Sawicki Chris Clayton and Stephen Murphy.

"Some of our freshmen are going to need to step up," Struthers said. "We will need them to be consistent."

With so many new players, Struthers is still sorting out his starting lineup for his season opening match on Wednesday afternoon. Struthers is looking forward to seeing his layers in match play action and he line-up may very well be adjusted after the first couple of matches.

"We have a lot of kids who are new to golf, and new to the team so I am still having trouble picking my top six players," Struthers said. "I am looking to find the right chemistry between players and see who performs the best. I will know a lot more after Wednesday."

The Rams new lineup will be facing a very challenging schedule as they look to have another successful season. With Greater Lawrence leaving the CAC, only three teams, Shawsheen, Northeast Regional and Minuteman remain in the league, meaning the Rams had to fill their schedule with some tough non-league foes, such as Billerica, Austin Prep, Arlington Catholic and Burlington.

Regardless of the competition, Struthers knows another undefeated season is unlikely, but at the same time he is not counting out his group of new players.

"I am always excited at the start of a new season, and even though we are very young I am excited about this season," Struthers said. "We could have a very good year."

Happy horse story for 31 year old jumping champion, Snapper, thanks to volunteers and the North Reading Fire Dept.

Equine Rescue by Mia Carter

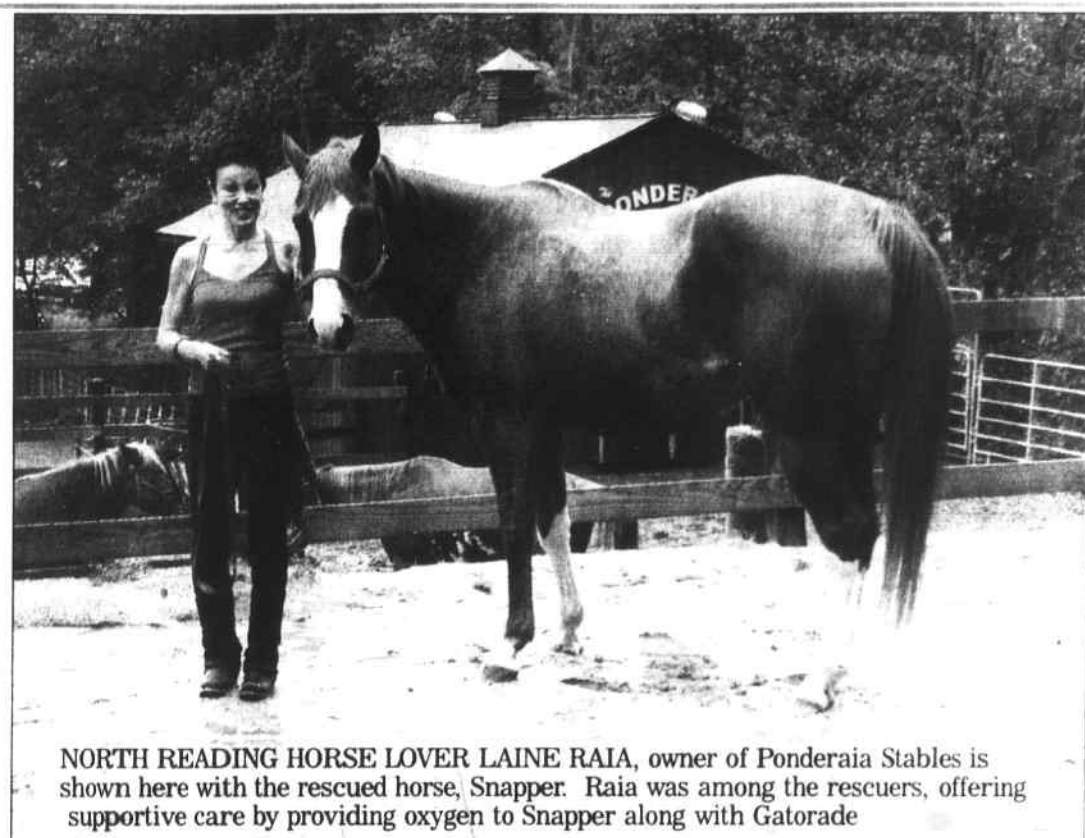

Last Tuesday, September 2, started out like most normal days at one North Reading on Duane Drive, but horse caretaker Diane Downing emerged to find a horrifying scene: a 31-year-old horse named Snapper had fallen inside his stall.

Horses, like many other large animals, can have a difficult time getting to their feet due to their sheer size. And for Snapper, the fall was compounded by the fact that he was in a cast position, meaning his legs were tucked beneath him and his body had landed right up against the stall wall, making it impossible for him to rise to his feet on his own.

"Horses are prey animals and they tend to struggle frantically for a little while, but then they give up and once a horse gives up, the situation becomes even more difficult," explained

North Reading horse lover Laine Raia, owner of Ponderaia Stables. Raia was among Snapper's rescuers. Also present to aid in the rescue were members of the North Reading Fire Department, a veterinarian, along with fellow horse lover and owner of North Reading's Little Brook Farms, Bob Elworthy.

"Fortunately for the owner, Snapper was righted and up on his feet once she arrived," Raia said of Snapper's owner Audrey Zwicker,

NORTH READING HORSE LOVER LAINE RAIA, owner of Ponderaia Stables is shown here with the rescued horse, Snapper. Raia was among the rescuers, offering supportive care by providing oxygen to Snapper along with Gatorade necessary for the rescue already on-hand. Recently, the North Reading Fire Department benefited from a fundraiser that provided the department with a series of pulleys, rigging and other similar equipment that were used to lift the horse to his legs.

In an odd coincidence, one of the major donors of the equipment - intended to rescue firefighters who fall through the floor of a burning building - was a North Reading veterinarian, Joan Baruffali, DVM, of the North Reading Veterinary Clinic. Last Tuesday's rescue was the first time the equipment was put to use.

Snapper did bang his head and he sustained some fairly minor cuts and scrapes during his struggle, but in all, it appears he suffered no serious health effects from the fall.

Equine Rescues and Equine Education

It's unclear precisely how the elderly horse named Snapper fell or how long he was down, but a downed horse is a critical, emergency situation which can prove deadly in many situations.

A fallen horse will experience trouble breathing and colic, and much of the horse's bodily functions tend to slow and even stop when in a situation like Snapper's, and in many cases, the outcome is not a good one.

The outcome can certainly be a deadly one in cases where shock sets in due to the stress that is placed on the horse's body following a fall or entrapment. And on several occasions during Snapper's rescue, the volunteers feared the situation appeared to be headed downhill.

"There were a few unsuccessful attempts and after one of those, I could see it in his eyes and there was a point where I thought we may be losing him, so I started patting his neck and getting him to perk up. Raia offered supportive care by providing oxygen to Snapper along with Gatorade, which helped to rehydrate and give the fallen horse a bit more pep - just what he needed to get to his feet.

Notably, Raia is very active in the North Reading equine community. She works with the North Reading Fire Department to conduct local equine rescues.

"Bangkok Dangerous"

"BANGKOK DANGEROUS" is about as boring a movie as has hit the screen this year. Nicolas Cage (left in photo) plays an assassin paid to kill four people. He hires as assistant, Kong and she learns many of Cage's moves. Cage has missed before but his one is the worst yet. A real stinker.

lone wolf, instead finds himself mentoring the young man while simultaneously being drawn into a tentative romance with a local shop girl."

Sound like a film you would be interested in seeing? Don't. 'Bangkok Dangerous' is about as boring an action movie as has ever been made.

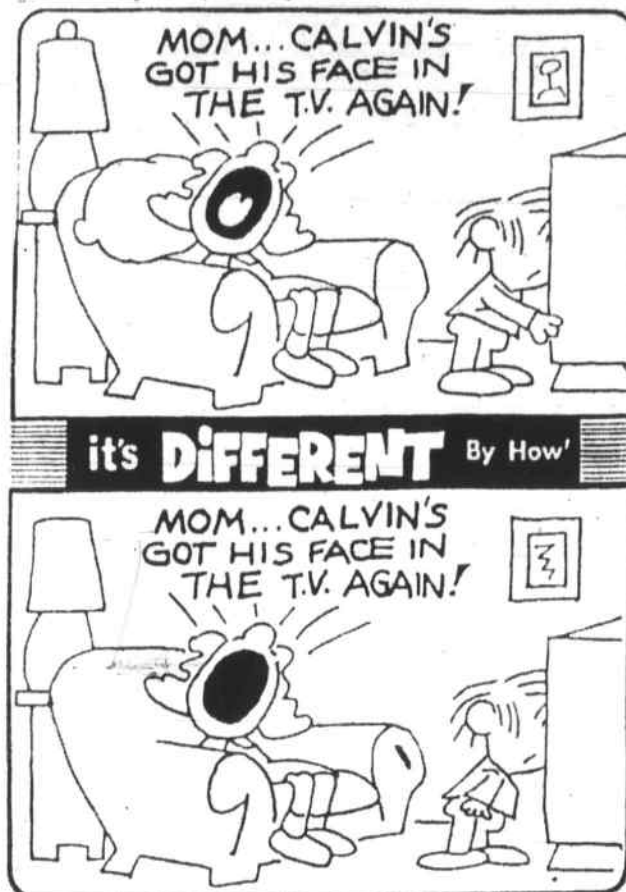

Nicolas Cage plays an assassin we know only as Joe, who is being paid to kill four people while he's in town, so to speak.

He hires Kong to be his assistant. Of course, we deal with the cliché that this is his last job, and he's going to stop being an assassin after his last kill.

Kong becomes Joe's apprentice in a "Karate Kid" sort of way, complete with a montage in which Kong learns many of Joe's moves. In the meantime, during the off-again on-again narration, Joe tells us that it is important for a hitman never to get involved, but then falls hard for Fon, a pharmacy worker who has no idea what he does to make a living - at least, not at first.

Nothing about Joe, or Kong, or the woman with whom Joe is smitten is very interesting. This is an example of what can happen when an action movie keeps moving along but never delivers anything worth seeing. This has plenty of color, and people, and settings, but it's boring 90 percent of the time.

Every once in a while Cage makes a bad movie, but this is one of his worst.

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them?

counter-terrorism group that includes Guy Pearce and Neal McDonough, who squabble about how the case should be handled; and a CIA agent played by Jeff Daniels who has a different perspective.

The terrorist group with which Samir is aligned is skeptical about Samir's intentions, so he is forced to undergo beatings and brutal treatment in a prison so that his connections to the United States aren't revealed.

Samir escapes from prison to train others in a bombing that takes several lives. Samir's bomb-making expertise and tactical know-how are crucial to the terrorists' campaigns.

Cheadle is well-cast in this role, a sort of thinking-person's espionage movie. In addition, Said Taghmaoui is terrific as Samir's friend, Omar.

This is a smart drama that echoes real-life headlines with its situations and locations that take the audience all over the globe.

"HAMLET 2"

GRADE: **

For a comedy as ridiculous as 'Hamlet 2' to be a success (even the name makes no sense, considering the deaths of the characters in the original story 'Hamlet'), every actor involved needs to be fully committed to the project - even if doing so makes them look like they should be committed themselves - to an institution.

Thankfully, everyone involved with this off-the-wall comedy believes in the material, and is happy to be a part of it.

Hamlet 2, the hit of the 2008 Sundance Film Festival, is an irreverent comedy centers on one teacher's overzealous quest to mount a high school musical. Steve Coogan plays Dana Marsch, a failed actor-turned-high-school drama teacher. Shortchanged in the talent department, Dana still harbors ambitions and passions. At work, that is; his personal life, with his dissatisfied wife Brie (Catherine Keener of 'The 40-Year-Old Virgin') and their boarder Gary (David Arquette of the 'Scream' movies), leaves much to be desired.

At Tucson, AZ's West Mesa High School, Dana sees himself as an inspirational teacher. But his adaptations of popular films, as performed by his top students Rand and Epiphany, are not resonating. When his latest production, 'Erin Brockovich', is dismissed by the 9th grade drama critic and his department is targeted for closure, Dana must reach deep into himself for creativity.

After much perspiration, he conceives a sequel to Shakespeare's Hamlet, a musical-theater extravaganza that will disdain both political correctness and dramatic credibility.

Mission of Deeds First Annual Lake Quannapowitt Fund Raising Walk

Mission of Deeds will hold its First Annual Lake Quannapowitt Fund Raising Walk in Wakefield on Sunday, September 28.

Registration will be at 9:30 a.m. The walk will be held from 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon. Steve Burton, WBZ-TV/TV38 Sports Anchor, is serving as the honorary chair of this event.

Mission of Deeds is a non-profit, volunteer organization located in Reading, MA. The charity provides beds, furniture and household items to individuals and families in need, free of charge. The clients assisted live in Middlesex and Essex counties. Mission of Deeds receives no government funding or United Way funding. The organization relies solely on the generosity of individuals and businesses for funds, furniture and household items for distribution to people in need.

Cash donations are used to purchase mattresses, box springs and bed frames.

For further information, call Mission of Deeds at 781-944-9797 or visit our website at www.missionofdeeds.org.

Personalized medicine: It's all about you (NAPSA)-People with cancer, heart disease, HIV and other conditions are living longer and enjoying better health because of what many consider a medical revolution called personalized medicine. At its center are genetic tests that identify the unique genetic profile of individual patients or their disease and allow physicians to tailor treatment to those unique characteristics.

The result is easier diagnosis and treatment, better prevention, and better-targeted therapy with fewer side effects. Using the guidance from genetic tests, physicians can prescribe the right drug, at the right time, at the right dose.

The effect of such personalized medicine can be felt across a range of conditions. Consider these:

- A test for overabundance of the HER2 protein in breast cancer patients has permitted better targeting of therapies and a dramatic improvement in survival rates.

- A test that identifies whether a patient is especially sensitive to a drug that prevents blood clots could eliminate as many as 17,000 strokes per year and reduce health costs by as much as $1 billion annually.

- Tests that read the DNA structure of the most common form of leukemia in children have helped boost the 10-year survival rate from 4 percent in the 1960s to more than 80 percent today.

- Diagnostic tests that check the genetic code of an individual's HIV virus and guide physicians in selecting the most appropriate treatment have helped transform HIV from an almost certain death sentence to a manageable chronic disease.

The real hope is for the future-and not just the distant future-with very promising genetic and molecular tests in development that could lead to earlier diagnosis and more-effective treatment for lung, ovarian, prostate and other cancers, as well as heart disease and other chronic diseases.

For more information on the value of genetic tests and other types of lab tests, go to www.labresultsforlife.org.

Genetic tests make diagnosis and treatment as individualized as disease itself.

Saturday, Sept. 20 Dropoff old TVS, appliances for nominal fee

WOBURN - Wondering what to do with that old television, computer monitor or appliance that is broken, unwanted or unused and just taking up space?

Former Woburn Alderman Paul Medeiros has found and is working with a Massachusetts company that will collect these items at drop off sites set up throughout Woburn at various times throughout the year.

The collection drives are open to anyone in all surrounding communities.

The next one will be held at the Daily Times Chronicle, 1 Arrow Drive (off Wildwood Street), from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 20. Proceeds will benefit the Council of Social Concern and its many of programs that support hundreds of local families.

This is an excellent opportunity to recycle these items at a minimal cost compared to the high cost associated with curbside appliance recycling programs and will also be a fundraiser for local organizations that will sponsor these events.

Another good thing and possibly the best part of this program is that it is open to residents from any and all communities, not just Woburn, as well as any and all business entities.

With your help these collections have raised over $20,000 dollars for local organizations so far. So clean out those basements, attics, garages and warehouses and bring them down!

The prices are as follows and compares Waste Management cost through the City of Woburn home collection versus drop off collection prices:

Computer monitor/lap top - $30.00 / $5.00

Television - $30.00 / $10.00

14th ANNUAL APPLE FESTIVAL

The North Reading Historical and Antiquarian Society is having its annual Apple Festival on Saturday, Sept. 20 on the Rev. Daniel Putnam House grounds at 27 Bow St. from 10 am to 3 pm.

Crafters, vendors, children's games and pony rides, entertainment, apple pie contest, silent art auction, art raffle, apple pie and ice cream, Historical Society merchandise and lunch courtesy of the No. Reading Minit-Militia will be available all day.

PARKER RIVER COFFEEHOUSE
The next Friends of Parker River National Wildlife Refuge Coffeehouse Lecture will be held Thursday, Sept. 25 from 7-8 pm. This event will feature "bird-friendly" shade grown coffee and pastries for sale as well as an entertaining and informative lecture.

This event will be held in the Visitor Center Auditorium, 6 Plum Island Turnpike, Newburyport and no registration is necessary. The program description is:

Butterflies of Northeastern Mass., Thursday, Sept. 25, 7-8 pm. Butterflies are beautiful and delicate insects, symbolizing freedom, whimsy and good fortune. They abound in the wet and dry meadows of our area but some species are showing worrisome declines in numbers. Join Sharon Stichter, Editor of the Mass. Butterfly Club's journal, Mass. Butterflies, to learn about some of our common and not-so-common species, where they may be found and the habitats they need to survive. A handout on butterfly gardening will be available.

FREE ZOOARCHAEOLOGY LAB OPEN HOUSE

On Monday, Oct. 13 (Columbus Day) Noon - 4:30 pm, the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology swings open the doors to the Zooarchaeology Lab, where experts work with archaeologists to identify animal bones from excavations all over the world.

The bones from archaeological digs can reveal what people ate, what animals they hunted and what animals lived around them.

Peabody Museum zooarchaeologists will demonstrate what the bones reveal using modern animal skeletons. This event is a favorite for children. Bring your own bone to bet it identified!

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Boston Red Sox teammates Dustin Pedroia and Kevin Youkilis could finish first and second in the American League batting race. When was the last time teammates did that, and who were they?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•The anticipation of Harvard's 135th season surrounds the return of 15 starters from 2007 as well as 11 returning All-Ivy League selections for the defending Ivy League-champion Crimson.

Losses have been few and far between in Cambridge over the last six years, as Harvard has amassed a combined 48-11 record in that span including two undefeated seasons, three undefeated Ivy championships and what can without question be termed as the most consistently successful program in the Ivy League during that stretch.

The offense welcomes back 12 players who started at least one game in 2007 and features All-Ivy League quarterback Senior CHRIS PIZZOTTI (READING). At 6 feet 5 inches tall, Pizzotti is a prototypical drop-back passer who possesses a big arm with deceptive escape ability in the pocket.

Pizzotti started the final seven games of 2007 and finished as Ivy League's top-rated passer, earning first team all-league honors as well as the Frederick Greeley Crocker Award as the most valuable player of the 2007 Harvard football team.

The Reading native finished the year with the second-best single season passing numbers in school history with 2,134 yards coming on 164 completions, a 63.1 completion percentage and 14 touchdowns against just four interceptions. He threw for more than 300 yards against Princeton and Yale and finished the Yale game with 27 completions, four TDs and 365 yards to have the single best showing against Yale in the 124-year history of the series.

•The University of New Hampshire women's lacrosse team was named one of 50 programs in Division I to earn Academic Squad honors from the Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Coaches Association, the IWLCU announced recently. MICHAELA HARDY

(READING) a junior on the 2008 Wildcat squad, was among the 159 student-athletes named to the IWLCU Academic Honor Roll.

Hardy, one of five IWLCU/U.S. Lacrosse All-America selections on the Academic Honor Roll, was honored earlier this year as the 2008 America East Women's Lacrosse Scholar-Athlete in recognition of her excellence both on the field and in the classroom.

Hardy, a psychology major who started all 19 games, ranked 30th in the nation in goals per game (2.74), 54th in points (59) and 58th in caused turnover per game (1.37). She led America East in both goals per game (3.67) and caused turnovers per game (1.50); in addition, she was sixth in points per game (3.83). Hardy was the team leader in goals (52), points (59) and caused turnovers (26); the 52 goals is eighth on UNH's list of single-season superlatives. She also tied for fourth in both assists (seven) and ground balls (24).

As a junior midfielder for the Wildcats in the 2008 season, Hardy earned IWLCU/U.S. Lacrosse All-America Third Team accolades. Her other honors included women's lacrosse.com All-America

Second Team, IWLCU/U.S. Lacrosse Northeast Region First Team, America East All-Conference First Team, America East All-Academic Team, America East Commissioner's Honor Roll and America East Defender of the Week (twice).

•Need some help with this week's question? The last time this happened, the two players were also on the Boston Red Sox.

•Six former Westfield State standouts, including a Reading native, will be inducted into the college's Athletics Hall of Fame during the 2008 Alumni Weekend. The 13th annual inductions will be held Friday evening, Oct. 17, in Scanlon Banquet Hall on the Westfield State campus.

and she'll also attend horse-related discussions held by the town's Zoning Board and other town committees to assist and consult on a horse-related issue.

"When there's someone who wishes to set up a new facility, I'll make my way to the location, assess the facility to see if it's appropriate, I'll speak with the neighbors to see how they feel about it - that sort of thing," explained Raia on her role as an equine consultant on many issues relating to horse ownership within the North Reading community.

Raia is also active when it comes to local equine education within North Reading, as the town is home to quite a few horses.

"I've attended several equine rescue seminars and I've made efforts to arrange for training sessions with the North Reading Fire Department so they'll be better prepared when this type of situation occurs," Raia explained, adding, "If you're not used to working with large animals, it can be very intimidating and acting in an inappropriate manner can make the situation worse."

One example of a common mistake that rescue crews may make involves arriving at the scene of a horse in need of rescue with the fire engine's lights flashing and siren sounding, which would only serve to frighten the horse, potentially leading to additional thrashing, distress and further injury.

"There's other tricks that rescuers should know," explained Raia. "If you encounter a horse who's fallen, one of the main things is to fall onto his neck to stop the thrashing. Horses need to raise their head and neck for leverage when they're getting up, and controlling the neck is one way to help the horse stop struggling."

Calming a fallen or trapped horse is really important to prevent further injury until you can assess the horse, Raia explained, adding, "My goal is to share what I know and to educate others on equine rescue."

nable to your charity/benefit auction...from the planning stages, venue selection, menu and item donations...to execution of the event, with staff to register bidders and professionally cash them out at the end of an event.

Rick will serve as the auctioneer, bringing energy, humor and, most of all, a fantastic bottom line to your live and silent auction fundraiser. With school just beginning, now is the time to put your committee together for your child's school and call Rick to work with you from start to finish.

Sandra Trainor, President of The Health Care Advocacy, said of Rick's services "Rick is the 'go to' person if you are looking for a skilled auctioneer. He has an extraordinary ability to connect with his audience and actually make it fun for folks to part with their money!"

Cheryl Bourque, Member of the PTO and Enrichment Committee, Birch Meadow Elementary School, Reading MA, said "Rick created enthusiasm in the audience for many items in the auction and continually motivated parents to outbid each other and escalate the prices. In particular, our 'Principal for the Day' event was sold for $500.00 - a price not attained before!"

Meet Dariana

Dariana is an artistic, creative and athletic fourteen year old young lady of Hispanic descent who likes to be called Dari. Others describe her as a sweet, caring, and happy teenager, who lights up the room with her charisma and positive attitude. Typical of teenagers her age, Dariana enjoys playing video games and listening to music on her MP3 player. She also enjoys singing, dancing, gymnastics, roller skating and ice skating. Dariana takes great pride in the fact that she has performed both solo and group dance routines at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

Meeting with success in her current foster home, Dariana has demonstrated that she can attach with a family and has connected nicely with both of her foster parents. The adults in her life have articulated that she is a joy to have in their lives and that her ability to express her feelings is impressive. A hands-on learner, Dariana is working hard to overcome some academic challenges. She is currently in a small structured classroom where she receives both academic and behavioral supports. Her overall conduct in school is very good and she responds well to redirection. Dariana generally enjoys being around her peers and likes to be given responsibilities within the classroom.

Legally free for adoption, Dariana would do well in a two-parent or a single parent female home with older or no other children. An ideal family would be supportive of Dariana maintaining contacts with her birth siblings. This engaging young lady is ready to become part of a family who can provide her with the structure, consistency and nurturance that she needs to reach her full potential. Dari would also love to be part of a family who shared her love of animals and had some pets.

There are approximately 2,400 children in Massachusetts foster care with the goal of adoption. Through no fault of their own, they cannot be raised by their birth parents. Many will be adopted by a relative or foster parent, but more than 600 have no one to adopt them yet. These waiting children are usually older, ages 6 - 16, or sibling groups who belong together, children of color, all ages, and children with intellectual, physical or emotional difficulties or disabilities. These children have experienced many losses and changes in their lives, and need patient and dependable adoptive parents who can help them grow and thrive in their new family. Free post-adoption support services are available to help.

To learn more about Dariana, and about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-54-ADOPT (617-542-3678) or visit www.mareinc.org. The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

AND THE FUTURE IS JUST ABOUT NOW!

Yippee! Reading

"The town's new Trails Committee is beginning to take shape, after the Board of Selectmen recently voted to appoint several members to the newly-formed group," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Receiving unanimous approval from the Selectmen for appointment to the committee were Charles Donnelly Moran, Thomas Gardiner, Joan Hoyt and David Williams. The exact wording of the language regarding the committee is as follows:

"2.2.8 Policy Establishing a Reading Trails Committee (RTC)"

"Based on the recommendation of the Northern Area Greenway Committee, there is hereby established a five (5) member Reading Trail Committee (RTC) which will assume the responsibilities of planning, developing, and maintaining present and future trails in the Town of Reading. The goal is for the Town to create and maintain a connected, well coordinated system of trails to serve the residents of the community. The RTC will undertake the following responsibilities:

"Make recommendations to the Conservation Commission, Town Forest Committee, and Recreation Committee regarding development, operation, use, and maintenance of trails crossing lands under the jurisdiction of these bodies. The RTC shall have no rule-making authority itself.

"Act as a liaison between the Town of Reading and the Reading Open Land Trust, Friends of Reading Recreation, Walkable Reading, Scout groups, and other youth and community groups with respect to development, operation, use and maintenance of trails.

"Coordinate and manage an Adopt-a-Trail program, if appropriate, for the maintenance of trails or portions thereof..."

Hmmm, Burlington

"The town will get its first Subway sandwich shop operation, following a recent unanimous vote by the Planning Board, whose members' prime concern about the application was litter," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The Subway will not stand alone as a business: it will be in a section of the One Stop Mart at 31 Winn St., near the Woburn line.

"Local attorney Thomas F. Murphy, Jr., represents the applicant, Arvu Parth Radhe Dada, LLC. The manager of the One Stop Mart is Ramchandra Parekh.

"Murphy told the Planning Board Parekh 'is looking to expand' the business. He added the Subway 'will be essentially a counter and run in conjunction with his convenience store, and it will not be a separate entity'..."

"Our intent is to watch out for litter control," said Planning Director, Tony Fields. "This is for take-out purposes only...There will be no cooking on the site.... The proposed use is able to be accommodated for based on the zoning use. There is no physical change proposed to the exterior.

"There is just re-heating, no cooking," Murphy said....

"Diane Viscione, owner of the building that accommodates One Stop Mart and other businesses there, says she believes she does her part to keep the litter down on the site, paying someone '20 hours a month' to clean the lot.

"She said, 'My tenants pitch in as well....'

"People will just throw the trash everywhere," Viscione said. 'I have the biggest lot and it is accessible to trucks, I have pictures of town trucks.... Not all of them leave their trash, but a significant amount do.' She went on to say that 'landscaping trucks empty their landscaping trash' there.

"People don't care," Viscione stated, adding that she tells people not to leave litter on the property, but the tone of their response is 'What are you going to do about it?'"

Check it out... Wilmington

The future is here? "Commercial developments are expected to bring many changes to Wilmington," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"Developers of Wilmington Crossing, the 70,000 square foot shopping center located at 275 Main Street across from Wilmington Plaza, are looking forward to the end of the construction phase of their project.

"According to Michael Coffman, Vice President of Coffman Realty, Inc., they will soon - weather permitting - complete the outside construction and expect that some of the tenants will be taking possession of their space to being the internal build-out phase. Coffman expects that residents should see signs of businesses opening or preparing to open their doors.

"There was still space available in the center, which currently has committed tenants that include Staples, Starbucks, Kendra & Anthony's, Danvers Bank, Sleepy's, Dollar Tree, Pearle Vision, D'Angelo's, La Chic Nail and Skincare, Fantastic Sams and Ruby Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Wilmington Plaza is right across the street. "According to John Matthews, the real estate representative for Valley Properties, Inc., the project is expected to take 18 to 24 months to complete. The new plaza includes a standalone CVS located at the north end of the lot, a standalone Sovereign Bank at the south end of the lot, and a new shopping center to be constructed directly behind the existing shopping plaza.

"The two standalone buildings, to house CVS and Sovereign Bank, will be constructed as the first phase of the project. The construction of the new shopping plaza will then take place, followed by the demolition - in stages - of the existing plaza....

"A third development in town anticipates completion shortly. The Courtyard at Wilmington Commons, located directly across the street from Rotary Park at 36 Middlesex Avenue, will consist of seven residential townhouses, four garden style 3-bedroom units, and one commercial office space of 2,200 square feet...."

Athletes

FROM S-4

Robyn Wainwright ('94) is considered the finest point guard in Westfield State history.

For ticket information, contact 413-572-5433.

Bosbach ('80) is considered one of the most versatile and talented athletes in the storied history of the Westfield State track and field program.

Bosbach also was the consummate "team" athlete, sacrificing his personal goals in an era when the Owls developed into a New England power. He was a member of four Massachusetts State College Athletics Conference (MASCAC) championship teams and a senior leader on Westfield State's first new England Division III championship in 1980.

In a superb display of his talents, Bosbach competed in five events in the 1978 MASCAC championships. He won the 110 high hurdles and placed second in the 400 hurdles, long jump, triple jump and high jump.

In addition, Bosbach had an inspirational effort during the 1980 New England Division III championships, when he placed fourth in the intermediate hurdles and third in the triple jump despite taking only one jump attempt because of an ankle injury.

Bosbach was an All-New England performer nine times and qualified for the 1978 NCAA Division III national championships in the triple jump. He held school records in the triple jump (46-7 1/2) and 120 yard high hurdles (15.4).

In high school, Bosbach was the Class B state champion in both the triple jump and high hurdles while leading Reading to the 1975 state team title. He also captured the All-State triple jump championship and placed second in the New England championships. He was inducted into the Reading High School Hall of Fame in 2003.

Concentrating primarily on one event, Bosbach excelled at even higher levels following his graduation from Westfield State. He won the 1981 and 1982 USA Track and Field New England championships at Boston College with triple jumps of 47-8 and 48-4, respectively.

In the Eastern Masters Championships in 1991, he was first in the high jump, second in the high hurdles and second in the triple jump. He competed in the masters indoor national championships at the Reggie Lewis Center in Boston from 1998 to 2002. He triple jumped more than 42 feet at the age of 40 in 1998 to place third nationally. He placed fifth nationally in 2002 with a high jump of 5-6.

Bosbach remains active in track and field as the official starter for Lexington High School meets. He also has coached at Reading and Acton Boxboro High Schools.

Professionally, Bosbach is an active volunteer with disabled sports and special needs programs, including the Special Olympics and Access Sport America. For the past 25 years he has been an adaptive physical education teacher: two years at Perkins School for the Blind in Watertown, 11 years at a private school in West Newton, and since 1997 in the Lexington public schools.

Bosbach resides in Acton with his wife, Nancy Tarquinio, and two sons: Sam, a junior and UMass Amherst, and Ben, a freshman at Acton-Boxboro High School.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The last time it happened was in 2003, with the Red Sox tandem of Bill Mueller first at .326, and Manny Ramirez second at .325.

DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please email it to readingchronicle@comcast.net, or mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, Ma., 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200.

Calendar

announce that the annual Kick-off Dinner will be held on Monday, Sept. 22nd at 6:30 pm at Temple Emmanuel in Wakefield.

They invite area women to join them for the new season with friendship renewals and a delicious meal they don't have to cook!

During dinner, upcoming programs will be announced and all will receive the latest edition of their yearbook. Again there will be a fun fund-raising live auction. This year's auction will be new and improved.

POST OFFICE SPECIAL CANCELLATION

The Wilmington Post Office, 18 Church St., is offering a special cancellation in commemoration of the Vietnam War Memorial Moving Wall visiting the community on Sept. 18 to 20.

The special cancellation depicting the Moving Wall says: "Moving Wall Station, Sept. 18, 2008, Wilmington, MA 01887" and will first be offered Thursday, Sept. 18. It will be available at the Wilmington Post Office until Oct. 18. The U.S. Postal Service offers special pictorial cancellations to commemorate local events throughout the nation.

The cancellation itself is free. However, the customer must bring, purchase or send an envelope or postcard with the appropriate First Class Mail postage (42 cents and 27 cents respectively) to the offering post office requesting the special cancellation.

LOIS CLUB MEETS SEPTEMBER 30TH

Paint from S-10

He also advised that new technology has yielded a new generation of exterior paint, such as the eco-friendly low-VOC formulation Benjamin Moore Aura Exterior. Compared to other paints, this new breed performs better while withstanding the test of time.

For instance, one coat of Aura goes on like two coats of traditional paint. It dries faster and delivers a smooth and durable finish that lasts year after year, even in the most rigorous outdoor environments. This, of course, translates to time and cost savings, often eliminating the need for a primer or a second coat. It also means the paint helps to fill in minor cracks, crevices and other substrate imperfections, which adds to the smooth finish you can both see and feel. "Obviously, structural issues, such as cracked or rotting siding must be dealt with before painting begins," counseled Minchew. "A thorough inspection of the exterior of the house for damage must be made and any necessary repairs completed—that's a given."

Drying relatively faster than other paints, Aura enables seamless touch-ups and recoats that can begin within just a few hours of application. And, because it can be applied in temperatures as low as 40° F, the typical season for exterior painting is now extended beyond what has been the norm.

"For most of us, our houses are our single largest investment, and for many of us, it's where our savings are," said Minchew.

This week's sampler: The Ridgfield

A large, open gathering space is at the heart of the Ridgfield, a Craftsman cottage with a fully contemporary interior.

Craftsman styling comes through most notably in the shingle-fronted gable ends, multipaned window uppers, and glass-framed entry. You'll also see it in the twin posts that support the high-ceilinged porch roof, and the louvered attic vents below the peaks of all three gables.

Soft natural light filters into the vaulted foyer through side lights and a transom window. Double doors on the right open into a vaulted den where glass fills most of the front wall. This room is ideally located for a home office. An opening on the foyer's left leads to secondary bedrooms and the main bathroom. A vaulted ceiling and wide window give the front bedroom an expansive feel.

The great room, too, is window rich and vaulted. Flames in the gas fireplace, nestled into a rear corner of this expansive space, can also be enjoyed by people working in the kitchen. A conversation bar rims the wrap-around counter on the great room side, while a curved, raised eating bar fronts the dining room. Its atrium door leads out onto a partially covered patio.

In addition to an array of built-in appliances, the Ridgfield's kitchen boasts a roomy walk-in pantry. A pocket door links the kitchen to a full-function utility room. Because it offers direct access to the garage, this space could also double as a mud room.

To give your house pinache...Paint it

(NAPSA)-Nothing transforms the exterior look of a house more effectively than a new coat of paint. It's a worthwhile investment of time and money that can pay back big returns in home value while protecting your house from costly repairs.

And with the warm weather months ahead, now is the perfect time to tackle an exterior painting project.

"Most houses get their color, and much of their character from paint," said Carl Minchew, director of color technology for Benjamin Moore, the 125-year-old paint manufacturer. "Depending on your color choices, it can convince that a small house looks larger, a plain house possesses panache. But beyond simple aesthetics," he continued, "the right exterior paint can actually protect the structure of your home. It can help prevent the damage caused by moisture and block ultraviolet radiation that weakens the finish on materials such as vinyl and aluminum and that destroys wood fibers."

According to Minchew, how long a new paint job will last depends principally on four factors: the quality and type of the paint or stain; the quality of the preparation; the quality of the application; and, of course, how punishing Mother Nature might be.
